LEGISLATION

by Mary Ellen Warlow and Cary H. Copeland
Office of Legislation
Criminal Division, U.S. Department of Justice

Criminal Code Reform. The Senate Criminal Code Reform bill (S.1630) was approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee in late November. Consideration by the full Senate is expected in late January.

In the House, there are two criminal code reform bills under consideration, H.R. 1647 and H.R. 4711. Representative Conyers' Subcommittee on Criminal Justice has been holding hearings on both bills. The Subcommittee is expected to report out a House criminal code reform bill by the end of January.

Bail Reform. This Fall, hearings were held before Senator Hatch's Subcommittee on the Constitution on the issue of bail reform. The hearings concentrated on S. 1554 which would revise federal bail laws in numerous respects, the most controversial of which is a provision for pretrial detention. The Subcommittee approved S. 1554, with several amendments, in October. Action by the full Senate Judiciary Committee is expected in the near future.

In the House, Representative Kastenmeier's Subcommittee on Courts, Civil Liberties and the Administration of Justice has held two sets of hearings on revision of federal bail laws, focusing on the issue of pretrial detention. Several bail reform bills have been introduced in the House including H.R. 4362 which is substantially similar to S. 1554.

Death Penalty. S. 114, reported out by the Senate Judiciary Committee in July, would reinstate the death penalty for certain federal homicides, treason, and espionage, by providing constitutional procedures for its imposition. The full Senate is expected to vote on this bill in January, prior to consideration of the Criminal Code Reform Act.

Four bills to restore the death penalty at the federal level have been introduced in the House: H.R. 1534, H.R. 2283, H.R. 3541 and H.R. 3934 (apparently based on S. 114). There has been no action on any of these House bills to date.

Exclusionary Rule. Various proposals to eliminate or modify the exclusionary rule in the federal courts have been introduced. In October, the Senate Subcommittee on Criminal Law held hearings on S. 101 and S. 751, but the bills are still pending before the Subcommittee.

Firearms. Numerous bills representing the spectrum of views on gun control have been introduced in both the House and Senate. The most common feature of these bills is a provision for mandatory prison sentences for the use of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

Otherwise, the bills range from proposals for strict gun control to those to weaken the current provisions of the Gun Control Act. There has been no committee action on any of these bills although Senate hearings are expected in December.

DEVIANCE CONTROL TRAINEESHIPS OFFERED

The University of Southern California invites applications for an interdisciplinary traineeship in Monitoring and Evaluating Deviance Control Efforts, part of an NIMH pre- and postdoctoral program.

Appointees acquire familiarity with a variety of projects in numerous organizations, may take coursework to fill gaps in prior training, and are aided in new research efforts.

Write to Daniel Glaser, Social Science Research Institute, University of Southern California, Los Angeles, CA 90007, providing vita and indicating postdoctoral interests.

NORTHEASTERN PhD STUDIES IN LAW, POLICY AND SOCIETY

Applications currently are being accepted by Northeastern University for its new interdisciplinary program in Law, Policy, and Society. The PhD program is designed for persons interested in careers in social policy.

Applicants must have earned a master's degree in a social science or a related field, or possess a JD degree.

For further information, write to Daryl Hellman, Law, Policy and Society Program, College of Arts and Sciences, 403 Meserve Hall, Northeastern University, Boston, MA 02115.

Tax Disclosure Amendments. On November 16, the Reagan Administration submitted to the Congress a legislative proposal to facilitate federal law enforcement access to tax information for use in connection with nontax criminal investigations and prosecutions.

The Administration bill is similar in most respects to S. 732 (discussed in previous editions) and has been introduced in the Senate as S. 1891 by Senators Roth, Nunn, Rudman, and Chiles. A Subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee held hearings on the issue of tax disclosure on November 9 and a Subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee is expected to hold hearings on the issue in December.

Federal law enforcement officials contend that amendments to existing disclosure laws are urgently needed to strengthen law enforcement efforts against narcotics traffickers, organized crime syndicates, and other offenders whose crimes involve large sums of money. Tax information is often an important source of evidence in such sophisticated crime cases.

Posse Comitatus Amendments. On November 17, the House approved the Conference Report on the Department of Defense authorization bill, S. 815, clearing the bill for action by the White House.

Sec. 905 of S. 815 would improve cooperation between military authorities and civilian law enforcement officials, particularly in connection with monitoring air and sea traffic involved in smuggling narcotics, customs contraband, and illegal aliens into the United States.

The Posse Comitatus Act (18 U.S.C. 1385) has long impeded cooperation between civilian and military officials in such matters and this new law, by facilitating appropriate cooperation, will enhance law enforcement efforts.
