DEMOCRATIZED RESTORATIVE JUSTICE AS A LESSON FOR CRIMINOLOGY: CYPRUS 1997 – 2003

A. Marco Turk
California State University-Dominguez Hills

The cost of conflict around the world in human life, property, and social institutions makes it more apparent with each passing day that the struggle for world peace must be reconfigured. Democracy seems to be ignored in the elite practice of diplomacy that refuses to consider the needs of abused people, their hatred over human rights abuses, ethnic divisions, and exclusion from democratic processes in the determination of their own destinies.

In advocating a reconfiguration, Braithwaite (2002) argues that "bottom-up restorative justice" can heal ethnic division in those instances where "restorative peacemaking" can be connected to top-down preventive diplomacy and negotiated cessation of hostilities." This can be the antidote to the official "elite diplomacy" where deals are made among representatives of governments without considering reactions of the general population. Elite diplomacy has failed to sustain the successes of international mediation and preventive diplomacy. It is Braithwaite's contention "that to be effective, diplomacy must adopt practices and values more akin to those of restorative justice," which he refers to as "democratized restorative justice" (2002, p. 188). As a Fulbright Senior Scholar in conflict resolution, my experiences in Cyprus support this argument.

In 1960 the island achieved its independence from England. By 1963 the Greek Cypriot majority was engaged in an ethnic cleansing of the Turkish Cypriot minority. This was reversed in 1974 when 35,000 Turkish troops arrived on the northern part of the island, eventually resulting in partition and the creation of the breakaway "Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus," "Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus," recognized by no country in the world other than Turkey. Depending on the particular point of view, Turkey either invaded the island to occupy the northern part, or was forced by international inaction to send troops to protect the Turkish Cypriot minority from potential abuse by the Greek Cypriot majority.

I spent two years (1997-1999) on Cyprus to train the island's Greek and Turkish Cypriot divided population in methods designed to resolve their historical conflicts. While I was acutely aware of the social, ethnic and political conflicts to be considered in any effort to establish peacebuilding protocols, I was careful to tread lightly in this area. By the time I left the island in 1999, I was responsible for future establishment of a mediation center in each community in addition to having trained a bicomunal cross-section of students, teachers, administrators, doctors, lawyers, judges, social workers, mental health professionals, government employees, law enforcement and military personnel in communication skills and the three then existing approaches to mediation. The training took place over approximately 500 hours, and was delivered to more than 600 persons.

Prior to August 1997, apparently the civil society had not been exposed to mediation skills and techniques. My reception from the general population was one of great enthusiasm. The response from the elite was patronizing at best. The question to be addressed was how to empower both sides to interact with each other so as to express their respective interests and underlying needs while at the same time encouraging each to recognize, understand, and consider the other's point of view, in order to achieve resolution. I introduced the traditional problem solving approach (Moore, 1996), the transformation of relationships model (Bush and Folger, 1997), and the aspect of the humanistic-transformative process (Umbreit, 1997) that seeks to educate and establish reasonable expectations on the part of both sides to a conflict.

The personal histories of murder, rape, and the missing, as well as loss of valuable property, on both sides, were something that none of the bicomunal participants were prepared to discuss directly with each other face-to-face, except from the vantage of leveling charges against the other community. It was easier to keep the real hurt to oneself. Consequently, the training allowed each side to keep its deepest feelings buried and permitted the bicomunal participants to venture only so far as they were willing to go.

During the summer of 2000, pursuant to an arrangement funded by the United Nations Office of Project Services (UNOPS), I returned to Cyprus to provide an advanced program to a selected number of those who had been trained earlier. I had planned to expand on the humanistic aspects of the Umbreit model. However, just prior to my departure for Cyprus, a new approach to conflict resolution was published. "Narrative mediation" (Winslade and Monk, 2000) was designed to succeed where the more traditional problem-solving and interest-based models had failed, especially in the area of violence and international hostilities. I decided to use this new model as the basis for advanced bicomunal training.

My interest in teaching this radical new approach was motivated by the fact that it develops the individual stories of the parties to a conflict as a means of creating a lasting resolution. Its goal is to create a relationship that is not compatible with conflict, which is accomplished through creation of a transformed relationship constructed from stories demonstrating understanding, respect, and collaboration. The complex nature of conflicts is deconstructed and replaced by new possibilities for change through (1) achieving a trusting relationship with the parties, (2) mapping the effects of a particular conflict's history, (3) constructing a new narrative for solution, and (4) seeking consensus and resolution.

My prior work (1997-1999) with the general population was centered around teaching the bicomunal participants how to connect and communicate, getting them to role-play scenarios from their respective cultures, and demonstrating how the various approaches to mediation could successfully resolve conflict in the situations that they developed. While they were able to work and negotiate successfully with each other in a bicomunal setting, they always did so without allowing those from the other side to really experience their very personal deep-seeded feelings related by historical divisive images.

When I explained the narrative approach in September of 2000, the participants in the bicomunal workshop were at best resistant and proceeded reluctantly. However, in the process of telling their stories they became empowered to express themselves without reservation. Managed to give each other's point of view recognition, and genuinely attempted to understand how the other side felt historically.

The conclusion of the lengthy workshop disclosed unanimity of feeling that, contrary to their original reluctance, participants accomplished something special for the first time in the 26 years of the island's divisive history. They were able to speak openly about their respective traumas and understand the diverse points of view generated by the historical passage from one generation to another. It was clearly possible that unresolved resentments previously festering in this civil society could now be controlled.

I returned to Cyprus in June 2003 to once again work with selected participants from prior programs. The purpose of two bicomunal workshops was to provide an opportunity for the participants to become familiar with and discuss in detail the proposed United Nations Annan Plan for peace and reunification of Cyprus. When I subsequently presented the 2003 positive results during a workshop at Oxford University the following October, I was astounded to discover that several of the other participants felt that diplomacy is best left to the elites. The fact that Alvaro de Soto, the U.N. Secretary-General's representative (and the author of the Annan Plan) was also in attendance made the lack of faith in civil society all the more surprising.

The question has been whether each community can put aside its history in order to achieve the goodwill necessary for a positive outcome in meeting the May 1, 2004 deadline established by the European Union for accession to membership of a reunited Cyprus. A negative answer results in only the Greek Cypriots being admitted to the European Union. In such event, the division between the two communities is further exacerbated, and it would seem to be only a matter of time before Turkey would seek to annex the northern part of the island.

Braithwaite (2002, pp. 172, 207) argues that to be effective today, "diplomacy must adopt practices and values more akin to those of restorative justice," and that unless people can come to terms with their anger and hatred of past crimes of war, peace has little chance to succeed. We need rituals to heal damaged souls, discover the ability to transform hatred into sorrow or forgiveness, and exorcise the evil of the past while moving forward with hope. Forgiveness is something that requires that the survivors are emotionally ready; it cannot be forced.

The bicomunal participants in my narrative mediation workshop were ordinary citizens who had the opportunity to disclose their sorrows and suffering directly to each other followed by expression of apology and the granting of forgiveness. If they are able to engage the larger community on each side with the healing aspects of mutual goal development and successful establishment of working relationships, these members of the island's civil society may yet provide a positive example of democratized restorative justice.

The lesson for criminology seems clear. Rather than continuing to rely on the elite approach to regulation of crime and criminality through a punishment orientation, we should consider all stakeholders: victims, offenders, and communities (Braithwaite, 2002). The narrative mediation approach provides these individuals with the opportunity to tell their stories about an injustice, its consequences, and what must be done to "make things right." The result can be more than simply a society with less crime. It also offers a more efficient and just legal system as well as a truly positive step in securing a more peaceful world.

IN MEMORIAM

MITCHELL SILVERMAN
(1940-2003)

Mitchell ("Mitch") Silverman, one of the founders of the Department of Criminology at the University of South Florida, died in his sleep at his home in Tampa, FL on December 19, 2003. Mitch was born in Denver, CO in 1940. He earned his B.A. in 1963 from the University of Denver and M.S. in 1965 from New Mexico Highlands University. He received his Ph.D. in Developmental Psychology from Ohio State University in 1968, and took a research position at USF working with exceptional children and adults. Shortly after arriving, he was approached with the idea of developing a proposal for a program in Criminal Justice, a project that became a reality in 1972. Mitch became the first director of the program, and was named the first chairperson when the program became the Department of Criminal Justice in 1974 (changed to Department of Criminology in 1987). In the ensuing years, Mitch would be instrumental in developing the department's M.A. program (1974) and Ph.D. program (1997). He published in the areas of juvenile delinquency, ethics, and the neurobiology of violence, and was the project director of several grants in the 1970s from the Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice. Mitch also directed the International Center for the Study of Violence at USF during the 1980s. Mitch's first presentation at the American Society of Criminology meeting was in 1977. Perhaps fittingly, his last ASC meeting was at the 2003 conference in Denver.

In addition to his academic work, Mitch was an active member of the United Faculty of Florida, the state faculty union, serving as president of the USF chapter from 2000-2002. He was also an active member of the Jewish community in the Tampa Bay region. In a message to the faculty about his death, College of Arts & Sciences Dean Kathleen Heide wrote what many other people would say about Mitch: "He had a very strong sense of justice and was committed to doing his part to ensure that people from various stations in life and diverse backgrounds were dealt with fairly."

Mitch retired from USF in May 2003. He had planned on moving to a home he had built in the mountains of New Mexico, but his failing health due to kidney disease deterred that move. His sudden death only six months after retirement still came as a shock to the department and university community. As one person noted at a memorial service held on campus, death had to take him while he was asleep because Mitch would have been too formidable a foe if he had been awake. Undoubtedly, his will to survive was fueled by the deep love and caring he had for his family and close friends. He leaves behind his wife of 36 years, Henrietta ("Cyndi"), two sons, Adam and Noah, Noah's wife Beth, and a host of colleagues, friends, and students whose life he touched.

Crime, Terrorism and Emergency Response Researcher

The RAND Corporation is a nonprofit research organization providing objective analysis and effective solutions that address the challenges facing the public and private sectors around the world. Over the past several years, our Public Safety and Justice group has increased our involvement in areas such as illegal immigration and border control, fire safety, evacuation and rescue, food processing safety, domestic counter-terrorism and emergency first-response capability. We have an exceptional opportunity for a mid- to senior-level researcher to join this group in either our Santa Monica, CA or Pittsburgh, PA locations.

You will further our agenda by conducting research that upholds the standards of quality and objectivity for which RAND is known. You will lead and direct multi-disciplinary teams in employing both quantitative and qualitative methods; establish project standards; monitor progress; and communicate interim and final results to the RAND community and relevant policy-making audiences. Senior-level researchers will also mentor and develop junior staff members.

The candidates we seek will have a minimum of 5 years research and/or policy planning experience; a strong or promising record of peer-reviewed publications; and a Ph.D. in behavioral sciences, economics or the management sciences, with a specific emphasis in one or more of the areas noted above. Experience in applying for and securing research funding from multiple sources is strongly preferred. The successful candidate must be able to obtain U.S. Government security clearance.

RAND offers competitive compensation and excellent benefits. Applications are only accepted online at www.rand.org/jobs. Click the "Find a Job at RAND" link, then the Research - Social Science & Law box and conduct a search. When the results have been returned, select job 001438, click "Apply for Jobs in Basket," and follow the prompts for submission. The RAND Corporation is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

OBJECTIVE ANALYSIS.
EFFECTIVE SOLUTIONS.

DIVISION OF CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY

CALL FOR PAPERS

The editors of Critical Criminology: An International Journal are seeking manuscripts that deal with questions of social, political and economic justice. The journal is for academics and researchers with an interest in the anarchistic, cultural feminist, integrative, Marxist, peace-making, postmodernist and realistic criminology. Critical Criminology also deals with issues that include class, gender, race/ethnicity and heterosexism. It encourages works that focus on creative and cooperative solutions to justice problems, plus strategies for the construction of a more inclusive society. Critical Criminology is the official journal of the Division of Critical Criminology in the American Society of Criminology. Manuscripts should be approximately 6,000 to 8,000 words (including tables, illustrations, notes and references) and framed in a manner that would be of interest to an international audience. Book reviews are also welcome and shorter research notes (3,000 words) will be considered for publication. Three hard copies and a disk copy of manuscripts should be sent to: Barbara Sims, Editor-in-Chief, Penn State Harrisburg, 777 West Harrisburg Pike, Middletown, PA 17057. For those contributors for whom regular mail is a problem, an electronic copy of the paper can be sent to Dr. Sims at bas4@psu.edu. Contributors are encouraged to consult previous issues of the journal for the appropriate citation style and format of their manuscripts.

CALL FOR REVIEWERS FOR MANUSCRIPTS SUBMITTED TO CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY

The editors of Critical Criminology: An International Journal are seeking manuscript reviewers for submissions to the journal. Individuals should be willing to work with the editors under their policy of ensuring a timely response to authors. If interested, please contact Barb Sims, Editor-in-Chief, at bas4@psu.edu.

NEW BOOK REVIEW EDITOR APPOINTED FOR CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY

The editors of Critical Criminology: An International Journal, are pleased to announce that Dr. Suzette Cote, California State University, Sacramento, has been named as Book Review Editor for the journal. Individuals are encouraged to contact Sue at scote@csus.edu if they know of a book they would like to see reviewed or to have their names placed on a list of individuals willing to review books identified by Sue.

CALL FOR PARTICIPATION

Sixth Annual Conference

JUSTICE STUDIES ASSOCIATION

Edgewood College – Madison, Wisconsin

CALL FOR PARTICIPATION

The Justice Studies Association is pleased to announce a call for participation for its sixth annual conference scheduled for Thursday, June 3 through Saturday, June 5, 2004. The conference theme is "Examining Daily Life in a World of Increasing Militarism, Inequality, and Adversarial Justice: Possibilities for Social and Restorative Justice." Presenters are invited to talk about: the increased use of militarism; the impact of globalization and empire; social inequality; adversarial justice; and ways to create just social, economic, and political arrangements in such a world.

SITE AND REGISTRATION

The conference will be held at Edgewood College, Madison Wisconsin (www.edgewood.edu). Thanks to the hospitality of our friends at Edgewood, lodging and meals at the college for four nights (single or double)--which includes Wednesday evening picnic and three meals a day except Saturday--are $190. Registration costs are: $90 for members; $120 for non-members; $60 for full-time students and those with less than $11,000 annual income paid prior to April 1, 2004. Payments made after April 1 will be: $110 for members; $140 for non-members; $80 for full-time students and those with less than $11,000 annual income.

THE INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY OF CRIMINOLOGY

FOURTEENTH WORLD CONGRESS OF CRIMINOLOGY

August 6-12, 2005

University of Pennsylvania - Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Provisional Theme:

REDUCING CRIME AND PROMOTING JUSTICE: CHALLENGES TO POLICY, PRACTICE, AND SCIENCE. THE PHILADELPHIA TRADITION: 1776-2005

Criminologists all over the world are invited to come to Philadelphia in August 2005 and debate major issues in criminology and criminal justice. The venue of the conference is the beautiful campus of the oldest university of the USA, which combines tradition with the most recent conference facilities. The program will provide innovative opportunities for listening and learning, for discussion and debate:

- * Special plenary sessions on far reaching global issues, with simultaneous translation.
- * Special high level topical and methodological training workshops given by world renowned experts on program evaluation, crime measurement, comparative methodology and crime prevention.

- * Roundtables on innovations in criminal justice
- * Poster sessions

The organizers offer:

- * Discounts for students and all attendees from developing nations
- * International Criminology Book Exhibit
- * Tour first prison in the U.S., Eastern State Penitentiary
- * Social activities designed to provide ample opportunities to meet new colleagues

Please join in the preparations for making the 14th World Congress of Criminology a global and intellectually most vibrant experience. Papers may be delivered in the ISC official languages: English, Spanish and French, or in any other language common to one workshop. We would like to encourage our colleagues to organize sessions and bring their networks to Philadelphia.

For further information and pre-registration please visit the website www.crim.upenn.edu/2005.html or contact the local organizers at 2005@sas.upenn.edu. For suggestions for contributions to the program contact:

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CRIMINOLOGY
An NGO in Special Consultative Status with ECOSOC
ELEVENTH UNITED NATIONS CRIME CONGRESS

Bangkok, Thailand
April 18-25, 2005

The American Society of Criminology and its members are encouraged by the United Nations to participate in the upcoming Crime Congress. This is the single largest meeting of approximately 3,500 international public policymakers in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice, held every five years since 1955. It is populated by diplomats, ministry officials, and criminal justice administration senior personnel as well as representatives of the Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs). Three types of sessions are held; High Level Diplomatic Sessions at which Member State representatives speak about progress and problems on the Agenda Items, Workshops organized by U.N. Institutes on specified themes, and Ancillary Meetings run by NGOs on subjects of their own choosing, compatible with the above settled agenda or 'new and emerging issues'. ASC is permitted to join with others in these Ancillary Meetings, usually by joining with other NGOs in developing a shared theme with diverse perspectives. As one of the very few academically oriented NGO's this is an opportunity for ASC members to insure that research is brought into the international debate to influence global public policy formulation.

Ancillary Meetings usually last 90 minutes each, with approximately four presenters and time for discussion with the balance of the attendees at the end. That means a presentation of approximately 15-20 minutes each, made at a slow rate, because of simultaneous interpretation. The audience ranges from 30-100 persons from all over the globe and reflecting the diverse types of attendees. Presentation should be aimed at the non-NGO sector as usually NGO representatives are quite knowledgeable.

In order to facilitate ASC members' participation the following general information is provided to potential contributors. (Also see www.unodc.org for wider understanding.)

Main Theme: "Synergies and responses: strategic alliances in crime prevention and criminal justice".

Provisional Agenda items:

1. Effective measure to combat transnational organized crime
2. Corruption: threats and trends in the twenty-first century
3. Economic and financial crimes: challenges to sustainable development
4. Making standards work: fifty years of standard-setting in crime prevention and criminal justice (www.unodc.org/unodc/en/crime\_cicp\_standards.html)

Workshops:

- a. Enhancing law enforcement and criminal justice reform;
- b. Strategies for crime prevention;
- c. Measures to combat terrorism;
- d. Measures to combat economic and computer-related crime

Already Proposed Ancillary Meeting Subjects:

Working Party on Restorative Justice
Working Party in formation

ASC members are encouraged to review the above, ask questions if necessary, and file an Expression of Interest for the institutional support (presented as a member of the American Society of Criminology) at the Congress.

Please forward your submission no later than Friday, September 10, 2004 to grosselfinger\_un@hotmail.com For further information contact either Dr. Cindy Smith at cjsmith@ubmail.ubalt.edu or Dr. Nancy Grosselfinger at grosselfinger\_un@hotmail.com Each submission will be promptly acknowledged in confirmation of receipt.

ASC STUDENTS!!!!

The new and improved ASC Email Mentoring Program has been revised to make it spam- and harvest-free/ Yes, robots be gone, we are finally safe from them. There are new instructions on the site for easy access to all of our mentors. "So check it out at the ASC website: <http://ascmentor.anomie.com>."

To refresh everyone's memory, the ASC Email Mentoring Program was developed in 1994, at the request of a student, to encourage ASC students to consult non-student criminologists (with whom they might not otherwise have access) on questions about: research and theoretical topics, career choices, and personal experiences as a minority criminologist (hence the mentors are listed by gender and ethnicity).

Long-Term Mentors: Please let me know of any changes you may want (address change, change in specializations, etc.), if you want to be removed from the list, etc.

Wanna-Be Mentors: If you are not a student, are a member of ASC, and want to serve on the ASC Email Mentoring Program, please provide me with the following information:

- Your name
- Snail mail address
- Email address
- Areas of specialization
- Gender
- Race/ethnicity

Many of the mentors, including yours truly, have found the Program to be immensely rewarding. It's a great way to share the benefits of our experience, make friends, and even earn the ASC Email Mentor-of-the-Year award.

Students: Please nominate your choice for Email Mentor of the Year, someone who has been especially helpful to you, by November 1st of very year. Send your nominations to me.

Thanks for your patience!

New Electronic Submission System for *CRIMINOLOGY

The editorial office of CRIMINOLOGY is pleased to announce a new web-based manuscript submission and review system. The new system facilitates a faster and more cost-effective review process.

Go to www.criminology.umd.edu to register for your username and password. You can then submit and review papers electronically. Submission fees must still be sent via regular mail, even for those papers submitted electronically.

The website provides clear instructions for authors to post their manuscript and any supporting documents. They will receive immediate acknowledgement of receipt of their manuscript and an identification number. Editorial staff will convert the manuscript to secure PDF format and send it out for review as directed by the editor. Reviewers will receive an e-mail with the PDF document and the necessary forms for review attached, which they can then upload to the website upon completion.

Everyone is encouraged to visit the website and register.

CALL FOR PAPERS

CRIMINAL JUSTICE STUDIES: A CRITICAL JOURNAL OF CRIME, LAW AND SOCIETY

Special Issue: Victims and Victimology

(formerly Justice Professional)

invites all interested persons to submit manuscripts for a special issue on victims and victimology. Submissions on a broad range of topics under the general heading of victims and victimology are encouraged. The journal regularly accepts, and will also consider for this special issue, literature reviews, research notes, and summary reports of innovative research projects. Manuscripts should be no more than 30 typed, double-spaced pages including tables, figures and references. APA style should be used, and all manuscripts will be peer-reviewed. ### SECURITY JOURNAL

The Security Journal provides a forum for the debate and analysis of key issues within the field of security. It brings together papers written by some of the world's leading practitioners and academics with the aim of generating new ideas and improving the management and practice of security. The papers will aim to facilitate the exchange of knowledge and good practice, and bridge the various disciplines, professions and countries. The ultimate criteria for a paper's acceptance are that the reader will learn something new from it and that it will advance learning in terms of generating ideas and/or improving practice. Contributors will include policy makers, professionals and academics. The journal will include research-based papers and case studies, as well as papers aimed at developing theory and good practice (3,000 - 5,000 words) and where appropriate, shorter pieces describing work under consideration or in progress (1,000 - 2,500 words). For more information about the journal, please visit the website: http://www.perpetuitypress.com/acatalog/Perpetuity\_Press\_Security\_Journal\_22.html. For inquiries concerning submission guidelines and requirements, please contact co-editor Professor Bonnie Fisher at: Bonnie.Fisher@uc.edu

A CRITICAL JOURNAL OF CRIME, LAW AND SOCIETY

The Justice Professional has been replaced by A CRITICAL JOURNAL OF CRIME, LAW AND SOCIETY, a refereed journal published quarterly by Routledge, Francis and Taylor Group. It is housed at the C. W. Post Campus of Long Island University, Department of Criminal Justice. The journal publishes articles that deal with substantive criminal justice and criminological issues, inviting both qualitative and quantifiable papers. We welcome all articles relevant to areas of criminal justice as well as areas of public administration and public affairs. Literature review, summary report of innovative research projects, and research notes are all considered as well. MANUSCRIPT Typewritten, double spaced manuscripts must be submitted in quadruplicate (three blind copies) and sent to: Roslyn Muraskin, Ph.D., Editor, A Critical Journal of Crime, Law and Society, C.W.Post Campus – Post Hall 3C3, 720 Northern Blvd., Brookville NY 11548. An abstract of not more than 100 words, as well as a brief biographical statement describing the author's current affiliation and rank should accompany the manuscript along with the article on disk in Word. A CRITICAL JOURNAL regards submission to the journal as a commitment to publish herein. Permission for use of copyright material is the responsibility of the author. Manuscripts should not exceed 20 typewritten double spaced pages. All footnotes, references, tables, figures, illustrations must be camera ready on an eight and one half by eleven wide paper. Footnotes and bibliographic citations must follow the journal style based upon that followed the American Psychological Association (APA). Since manuscripts are sent out anonymously for editorial evaluation, the authors' name should appear on a separate cover sheet. Electronic copies are accepted and should be sent to Roslyn.Muraskin@liu.edu.

WOMEN & CRIMINAL JUSTICE

WOMEN & CRIMINAL JUSTICE is the only periodical devoted specifically to interdisciplinary and international scholarly research and criminal justice practice dealing with all areas of criminal justice in relation to women. It provides both scholars and practitioners with a single forum devoted to this critical specialty area in the fields of both criminal justice and women's studies. The journal is refereed and features original research articles from academicians and professionals in the field that reflect its interdisciplinary and international focus. The manuscript should be approximately 20-25 pages double-spaced with a one-inch margin on all four sides and should include an abstract of 200 words, a title page, and a brief biographical sketch of author(s). References, citations, and general style of manuscript should follow the APA style (as outlined in the latest edition of Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association). References should be double-spaced and placed in alphabetical order. Please send 4 copies to: Dr. Donna C. Hale, Editor, Department of Criminal Justice, Shippensburg University, 1871 Old Main Drive, 317 Shippen Hall, Shippensburg, PA 17257-2299.

CALL FOR PAPERS

CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW

The Criminal Justice Review is a biannual scholarly journal dedicated to presenting a broad perspective on criminal justice issues. It focuses on any aspect of crime and the justice system, and can feature local, state, or national concerns. Both qualitative and quantitative pieces are encouraged, providing that they adhere to standards of quality scholarship. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage the submission of articles, research notes, commentaries, and comprehensive essays that focus on crime and justice-related topics broadly defined. In addition to an electronic version of the manuscript submitted in either Microsoft Word or WordPerfect, five paper copies of manuscripts should be submitted in English, follow APA style, be double-spaced throughout, including references, tables and indented quotations, and cannot be under consideration by another publication. An abstract not to exceed 200 words must be included with submissions. Send to: Michael S. Vaughn, Editor, Criminal Justice Review, P.O. Box 4018, Georgia State University, Atlanta, GA 30302-4018; 404-651-3688; Email: mvaughn@gsu.edu; Web Site: www.gsu.edu/cjr.

INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW

The International Criminal Justice Review is an annual scholarly journal dedicated to presenting system wide trends and problems on crime and justice throughout the world. Articles may focus on a single country or compare issues affecting two or more countries. Both qualitative and quantitative pieces are encouraged, providing they adhere to standards of quality scholarship. Manuscripts may emphasize either contemporary or historical topics. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage the submission of articles, research notes, commentaries, and comprehensive essays that focus on crime and justice-related topics in an international and/or comparative context broadly defined. In addition to an electronic version of the manuscript submitted in either Microsoft Word or WordPerfect, five paper copies of manuscripts should be submitted in English, follow APA style, be double-spaced throughout, including references, tables and indented quotations, and cannot be under consideration by another publication. References and citations should conform to either the Uniform System of Citation (The Bluebook) or the Chicago Manual on Style. The Criminal Law Bulletin is published by West Group and marks its 40th anniversary in 2004.

CALL FOR PAPERS

POLICE PRACTICE AND RESEARCH: An International Journal

Manuscripts are solicited for Police Practice and Research: An International Journal, which is published in four issues per volume. The journal presents current and innovative police research, as well as operational and administrative practices from around the world. Articles and reports are sought from practitioners, researchers, and others interested in developments in policing, analysis of public order, and the state of safety as it affects the quality of life everywhere. The journal seeks to bridge the gap in knowledge that exists regarding who the police are, what they do, and how they maintain order, administer laws, and serve their communities. Attention is also focused on specific organizational information about the police in different countries and regions, and periodic special issues are devoted to studying police policies and practices regarding a particular topic or issue. The editors aim to improve cooperation between those who are active in the field and those who are involved in academic research, as such a relationship is essential for innovative police work. To this end, the editors encourage the submission of articles co-authored by police practitioners and researchers that highlight a particular subject from both points of view. Submission of Manuscripts: Manuscripts should be not more than 30 typed double spaced pages with text presented on one side of the paper in English. The manuscripts should be accompanied by an abstract of no more than 100 words, up to six key words, and a brief biographical sketch. For complete Notes for Contributors, contact Arvind Verma, Managing Editor, Department of Criminal Justice, Indiana University, Bloomington, IN 47405, USA, Email: averma@indiana.edu, or any other member of the Journal team.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF, Dilip K. Das, State University of New York, Dept. of Sociology and Criminal Justice, Plattsburgh, NY 12901, USA, Email: dilip.das@plattsburgh.edu or dilpkd@aol.com TEL: (518) 564-3045, Fax: (518)564-3333

CRITICAL PERSPECTIVES IN CRIMINOLOGY

Critical Perspectives in Criminology will publish scholarly books and edited volumes that are critically conceived, theoretically animated, integratively focused, and policy oriented. We hope to identify and secure commitments from established authors and emerging talent in the field of criminology, including individuals whose disciplinary base is sociology, psychology, law, philosophy, history, psychiatry, political science, gender studies, and any of the other related social and behavioral sciences. Books in the Series will be aimed at the scholarly community, including library acquisitions and single purchases by academic researchers, as well as classroom adoption in upper division undergraduate and lower division graduate courses. volumes in the Series will NOT be intended for use as undergraduate textbooks. Questions about the Series or submissions should be sent to: Bruce A. Arrigo, Ph.D., Series Editor, Critical Perspectives in Criminology, Department of Criminal Justice, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, 9201 University City Blvd., Charlotte, NC 28223-0001; Barrigo@email.uncc.edu - or - Kerry P. Callahan, Acquisitions Editor, University of Illinois Press, 1325 South Oak Street, Champaign, IL 61820; Kerryrc@uillinois.edu

JOURNAL OF CRIME AND JUSTICE

The Journal of Crime and Justice, the official journal of the Midwestern Criminal Justice Association, is soliciting manuscripts with original scholarship in the area of crime and criminal justice. JC&J welcomes qualitative and quantitative empirical work, theoretical commentaries, and book reviews. The emphasis of the journal is on quality and interest to criminologists as well as practitioners. If you would like to have your work considered for publication in the JC&J, please submit a cover letter, four copies of your manuscript, and a $10 check made out to the Journal of Crime and Justice to:
