THE GROWING MORAL PANIC OVER PROSTITUTION AND SEX TRAFFICKING

RONALD WEITZER
George Washington University

A fierce debate has been raging for decades over prostitution, pornography, and other types of sex work, in both the academic literature and in the public arena. Sometimes referred to as the "sex wars," the two most prominent camps are radical feminism and the sex-as-work perspective. The unfortunate result of this ongoing battle has been considerable ideological contamination of our understanding of prostitution. This is not to say that most writing on prostitution is biased or driven by a political agenda, but the field certainly has more than its share of tainted work.

Recently, a new moral panic over prostitution has emerged, fueled by claims about sex trafficking. Here, I identify the main claims of the paradigm that is currently in the ascendancy—radical feminism—and then describe its influence over public policy in the Bush administration, focusing on sex trafficking.

The version of radical feminist theory to which I refer is "extreme" in the sense that it is absolutist, doctrinaire, and unscientific. The well-known writings of Andrea Dworkin, Catherine MacKinnon, and Kathleen Barry exemplify this approach. Their arguments have inspired a large number of "empirical" studies and led to the creation of several prominent antiprostitution organizations, like the Coalition Against Trafficking in Women (CATW). The following core claims distinguish this body of literature:

Prostitution involves male domination and exploitation of women regardless of historical time period, societal context, or legal status. CATW asserts in its website, "All prostitution exploits women, regardless of women's consent. Prostitution affects all women, justifies the sale of any woman, and reduces all women to sex." Prostitution has never been and can never be organized in a way that does not perpetuate gender inequality and that maximizes workers' interests.

Violence is omnipresent in prostitution. Every writer who adopts this perspective sees violence as "endemic" and "intrinsic" to prostitution—categorically and universally. Titles of journal articles reflect this position: "Prostitution as Violence Against Women," "Prostitution: A Violation of Women's Human Rights," "Prostitution is Cruelty and Abuse to Women and Children," and "Prostitution is Rape That's Paid For." By equating prostitution with violence and oppression, these writers hope to generate support for the antiprostitution crusade. Who can support prostitution if it is the quintessential form of violence against women?

Female prostitutes lack agency. They do not actively make choices (to enter or remain in prostitution) but instead are victims. The distinction between voluntary and forced prostitution is flatly rejected. Writers use the term "prostituted women" to convey the idea that prostitution is something done to women, not something that can be chosen. The only time women make their own choices is when they decide to leave prostitution.

Legalization or decriminalization would only make the situation worse. Such policies are bad both symbolically (giving the state's blessing to a despicable institution) and practically (increasing the supply and demand for paid sex, thus amplifying the number of victims).

In a sweeping critique, Gayle Rubin noted that the radical feminist literature on prostitution and pornography is filled with "sloppy definitions, unsupported assertions, and outlandish claims" (Rubin, 1993: 36). The claims would not be tolerated in academic publications on any other type of crime or deviance, yet these writers somehow manage to get their papers published in academic journals in addition to receiving grant money from the U.S. government.

Methodological and analytical flaws are abundant in this body of literature. Samples consist mostly of street prostitutes (not escorts, call girls, or other indoor workers) who were approached on the street, contacted service agencies, or were interviewed in jail—that is, unrepresentative convenience samples. Anecdotes masquerade as evidence; writers typically recount horror stories about victims, to provoke the reader's abhorrence of prostitution. The most disturbing instances of abuse are presented as typical. Counterevidence is routinely ignored.

Many of the claims are simply false. Violence is not pervasive in all types of prostitution; it is much less frequent in the indoor sector. Prostitutes do not necessarily see themselves as "prostituted"; many view themselves in more neutral terms, as "working women" or "sex workers." Studies of customers caution against blanket characterizations, and show that most customers are not violence-prone. And, finally, research on legal prostitution in Nevada, Holland, and Australia indicate that, under the right conditions, prostitution can be organized in a way that greatly increases workers' safety and job satisfaction. Space limitations prevent documentation of each of these counterpoints here, but supporting evidence is available elsewhere (Vanwesenbeeck, 2001; Weitzer, 2000, 2005).

Why it Matters: Government Policy and Funding

Twenty years ago, the Reagan administration formed a commission on pornography, headed by Attorney General Edwin Meese. The religious right and radical feminists dominated the commission's proceedings and the final report relied heavily on the testimony and "evidence" provided by Dworkin, MacKinnon, and other antipornography activists. This led to a national crackdown on pornography distributors in the late 1980s, putting several out of business.

History is repeating itself in the Bush administration. Official claims about prostitution and trafficking echo the Meese Commission's allegations about the harms of pornography, and are just as strongly influenced by converging rightwing and radical feminist interests. As the director of the State Department's trafficking office, John R. Miller (2005), admitted, the federal government has been "working closely with faith-based, community, and feminist organizations" to combat all forms of prostitution. Antiprostitution scholars and activists have scored a major victory in getting their views incorporated in law and policy.

While the Meese Commission provoked a backlash from many scholars and journalists and resistance from the pornography industry, recent developments in prostitution/trafficking policy have encountered much less opposition—perhaps because prostitution is illegal here and no one is lobbying in favor of trafficking. The new moral crusade against prostitution is yet another example of how ideology has triumphed over science in the Bush administration, but in this case, the scientific community has been largely silent.

A review of the U. S. State Department's (2004) new website—a "factsheet" titled The Link Between Prostitution and Sex Trafficking—as well as its annual trafficking reports shows how far the radical feminist agenda has been embraced by the Bush administration. The State Department's factsheet is filled with grandiose claims: "Prostitution is inherently harmful. Few activities are as brutal and damaging to people as prostitution." Legal prostitution "creates a safe haven for criminals who traffic people into prostitution." "Prostitution leaves women and children physically, mentally, emotionally, and spiritually devastated." "Prostitution is not the oldest profession, but the oldest form of oppression." Almost all of factsheet's citations come from one source: the writings and testimony of radical feminist scholars and antiprostitution activists. Citing their flawed arguments and "findings," the State Dement concludes that "routine abuse and violence...form the prostitution experience." The factsheet's set of "facts" are really fallacies. Prostitution is much more complex and variegated structurally and experientially (Weitzer, 2000, 2005).

Coercive sex trafficking can be defined as the use of force, fraud, or deception to procure, transport, harbor, and sell persons, within and between nations, for purposes of prostitution. This definition does not apply to persons who willingly travel in search of employment in the sex industry, though many writers lump this kind of migration into the trafficking category.

There are two problems with official figures on trafficking. One is definitional: Government publications use varying definitions—including "extreme trafficking," "sex trafficking," or the generic "trafficking" which may or not be for sexual purposes. The terms are sometimes used interchangeably, making it unclear if trafficking in general or coercive sex trafficking in particular is at issue. The other problem is one of magnitude: There are no reliable statistics on the scope of the problem, yet this has not stopped antitrafficking organizations and now the U.S. Government from claiming that victimization is a worldwide epidemic. A report by a State Department analyst acknowledged in 2000 that "no one U.S. or international agency is compiling accurate statistics" but then claimed that "700,000 to 2 million women and children are trafficked globally each year" (Richard, 2000:3). Four years later, the State Department's factsheet claims that 600,000 to 800,000 people are trafficked internationally each year, "hundreds of thousands" of whom are trafficked into prostitution. No credible evidence is provided to support these alarming figures, and "hundreds of thousands" is conveniently vague. The use of inflated figures is a tactic common to moral crusades; it is in their interest to exaggerate the problem.

The Bush administration seeks to change international opinion on both trafficking and prostitution. It has pressured complacent governments to change their policies. South Korea is a case in point. After the State Department included South Korea in 2001 on its "watch list" of countries with a poor record in fighting trafficking, the embarrassed South Korean Government passed a new law in 2004 that increased penalties for non-trafficked sex workers. Subsequently, the State Department's 2005 Trafficking in Persons Report declared that the Korean government "showed leadership" by passing the antiprostitution law, and Korea was then removed from the watch list.

The U.S. government has spent about $300 million in the fight against trafficking in the past four years, but the funds come with strings attached. To be eligible for U.S. Government funding, any foreign NGO working on the trafficking front must now declare its opposition to legal, state-regulated prostitution, and the AIDS funding law of 2003 requires that any organization working to fight AIDS must "have a policy explicitly opposing prostitution and sex trafficking" if it wishes to receive such funding. It is claimed that legal prostitution "fuels" trafficking, yet no evidence is provided to show that legal prostitution causes or even contributes significantly to sex trafficking. In fact, the State Department itself provides some evidence to the contrary: Its 2005 trafficking report on The Netherlands, where prostitution is legal, states that the government "fully complies with minimum standards for the elimination of trafficking" and that the Dutch police report a "decrease in trafficking in the legal sector." Apparently, legal prostitution does not necessarily serve as a magnet for sex trafficking, but may instead help to reduce it via greater government oversight of the legal sector.

The U.S. Government's position on prostitution contrasts sharply with the positions of several other nations—Australia, Britain, Canada, New Zealand, etc.—which have recently either legalized some form of indoor prostitution (such as brothels) or are investigating alternatives to blanket prohibition. These governments appear to reject the notion that prostitution is inherently evil and instead have explored ways to regulate it, guided by the principle of harm reduction. This approach has also been embraced in Nevada, where legal brothels have existed for the past 35 years.

None of this is to suggest that sex trafficking is a myth. It does occur, alongside voluntary migration in search of work. Clearly, there is a need to punish unambiguous cases of coercive trafficking and child prostitution. But the issue has become heavily politicized. High figures and anecdotal horror stories are being used to demonstrate that there is a worldwide epidemic of coerced prostitution and to justify condemnation of all forms of prostitution everywhere. As McDonald (2004:158) points out, the campaign against trafficking has exploited "one of the most powerful symbols in the pantheon of Western imagery, the innocent, young girl dragged off against her will to distant lands to satisfy the insatiable sexual cravings of wanton men." Contemporary claims about sex trafficking are reminiscent of the frenzy over "white slavery" early in the 20th century, except that now the typical victim is a poor, young woman from the Third World or Eastern Europe. During both time periods, a litany of wild claims contributed to a moral panic.

THE STOCKHOLM PRIZE IN CRIMINOLOGY

The Swedish Ministry of Justice has announced that it will award an annual, international prize in criminology in the amount of at least 1 million Swedish Kroner (approximately $150,000), for research or research applications that help to reduce human misery and increase human rights. The full details of the Prize are now posted at www.criminologyprize.com. Any criminology society, department or institution may nominate one person, or team of persons, in any given year. Nominations will be accepted this year (2005) through the end of October. The first prize will be awarded in Stockholm City Hall, in the same room as the Nobel Prize banquet, on June 16, 2006. In conjunction with the annual prize proceedings, the International Society of Criminology will organize a scientific meeting on a theme related to the general area of research for which the prize will be awarded that year.

Please go to the 14th World Congress website (www.worldcriminology2005.org) for details on how you can register to participate in the Stockholm Scientific Meetings.

ANNOUNCEMENT FROM NIJ

It is with the greatest pleasure that I announce the appointment of Thom Feucht as NIJ Assistant Director for Research and Evaluation. Thom has served as NIJ acting assistant director for R&E since 2002. During a period of significant transition, Thom has provided strong leadership for ORE. With his guidance, NIJ established a new evaluation division, began a new research program on terrorism, renewed its work in community corrections, policing research, and other key areas of crime and justice, and developed several new initiatives in partnership with the John Morgan's Office of Science and Technology. Thom continues to represent NIJ and the Department on several important inter-agency working groups including the Office of Science and Technology Policy Social Behavioral and Economic Sciences subcommittee, the Federal Geographic Data Committee, and the Forum on Family and Child Statistics. Thom holds a Sociology degree from the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill. Before coming to NIJ, Thom was associate professor of sociology and urban studies at Cleveland State University. Since joining NIJ in 1994, Thom has served as a division chief and as deputy director of the research and evaluation office.

Psychology & Law

The University of California, Irvine announces the formation of a Center for Psychology and Law. Housed in the School of Social Ecology, the Center's goals are to investigate issues, and train graduate students to address problems that fall at the intersection between these fields. Through raising awareness of the Center's research projects and faculty, we hope to better inform and encourage future collaboration among academics, legal professionals, policy makers, and the general public.

Primary Research Areas

Scientific evidence: expert testimony and juries, use and interpretation of forensic science

Memory, suggestion, and the law: recovered memory, eyewitness testimony, interrogation procedures

Child victim/witnesses: protecting child witnesses, perceptions of child victims/witnesses, children eyewitnesses

Juvenile offenders: mental illness and juvenile crime, when juveniles should be tried as adults

Mental health and justice: Psychopathology, competency to testify and stand trial, sexual harassment and workplace stress

Miscarriages of justice: false confessions, misinterpretation of evidence, faulty decision making

Changes to the ASC E-MAIL MENTORING PROGRAM

The ASC email program has gone through a number of changes, all good. Please examine it and let me know if you have any suggestions for improvement. First off, there is a search feature that allows searches for mentor based on specialization. So, let's say that an ASC student wants a mentor specializing in theory. Simply go to the search bar and type in, you guessed it, theory. Up pops all the mentors who specialize in theory. Second, the site is more accessible than ever before. You'll see what I mean when you go there. Go to <http://ascmentor.anomie.com>. You can also access the ASC email mentoring program via the ASC main page.

Current Mentors

Some of you have moved, changed your email addresses, etc. and I need to know of these updates. Also, if you're not interested in serving as a mentor anymore, please let me know that and I'll take you off the list.

New Mentors

We can always use new mentors and we especially need mentors of the female persuasion. The ASC e-mail mentoring program has been a rewarding experience for those of us already serving as mentors. As you know, we always learn from our students. The necessary qualifications are: membership in the ASC and status of non-student. We seek not only university faculty but also mentors working in research institutes (private or public), practitioners, administrators, or any field related to the discipline of Criminology.

Just send me the following information:

Name

Office or other mailing address

E-mail address

Areas of specialization within Criminology (e.g., gender and crime, community corrections, qualitative methodology, technology, theory, etc.)

Age (optional)

Gender

Race/ethnicity

Students

This program is available to all ASC students and we strongly encourage you to use it. It's free and the mentors are top-notch experts in their various subdisciplines of Criminology. The American Society of Criminology developed the E-Mail Mentoring Program in 1994, the purpose being to link ASC undergraduate and graduate students with experts in the field of Criminology. Through this program, students can email openly and candidly with non-students (faculty, researchers, practitioners, administrators) outside of their universities. Students can ask mentors about career choices, research and theoretical issues, personal-professional concerns (such as what it is like to be a minority Criminologist in a variety of work settings).

At this point we have over 80 mentors, representing a wide array of specializations, races/ethnicities, nationalities, professional experiences, and workplace settings. As soon as you find a mentor with whom you wish to commune, click on her/his e-mail address and you're hotlinked right away with that mentor. There is no limitation on how many mentors you can use.

ASC Email Mentor of the Year Award

Students nominate an individual mentor who has been especially helpful through the ASC email mentoring program. As webmaster, I read the recommendations, tally the votes, and give a very nice plaque to the lucky mentor. The mentor of the year award is announced at the ASC annual meetings. Students, please make your nominations by October 1 of every year.

Students and mentors may contact me at:

JOHN H. LAUB

John H. Laub is a Professor of Criminology and Criminal Justice at the University of Maryland, College Park. Dr. Laub is also an Affiliate Faculty Member in the Department of Sociology and a Faculty Associate at the Maryland Population Research Center, both at the University of Maryland.

He is a Fellow of the American Society of Criminology and recently he served as President of the American Society of Criminology. His areas of research include crime and deviance over the life course, juvenile delinquency and juvenile justice, and the history of criminology. He has published widely including Crime in the Making: Pathways and Turning Points Through Life, co-authored with Robert Sampson, Harvard University Press, 1993. With Robert Sampson, he wrote Shared Beginnings, Divergent Lives: Delinquent Boys to Age 70 (Harvard University Press, 2003), which analyzes longitudinal data from a long-term follow-up study of juvenile offenders from a classic study by Sheldon and Eleanor Glueck. Both books won three major awards: The Albert J. Reiss Award for Distinguished Scholarly Publication from the American Sociological Association's Crime, Law, and Deviance Section; the Outstanding Book Award from the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences; and the Michael J. Hindelang Book Award from the American Society of Criminology.

PRESIDENTIAL AWARD

THE FORTUNE SOCIETY

The Fortune Society is a prisoner aid organization that has been serving offenders in New York City since 1967. In that year, an off-Broadway play, "Fortune and Men's Eyes," written by ex-prisoner John Herbert and produced by David Rothenberg, dramatized life in prison and produced a dramatic response in the community as people learned how offenders were being treated by the criminal justice system. As a result, with David Rothenberg's leadership, a small group formed The Fortune Society, dedicated to the principle of ex-prisoners helping themselves.

Staffed primarily by ex-prisoners, the Society today provides a broad range of services, including education, counseling, health services, and career development, and since 2002, housing in a residential facility called the Fortune Academy. The Fortune Society's stated philosophy is that "the individuals coming through our doors and through the criminal justice system are people to be valued, cared about, assisted, and held responsible for their actions." Those individuals are provided with a safe, supportive environment and a sense of community and are challenged to change their lives.

WAR CRIMES, CALL FOR PAPERS

War Crimes, Genocide, and Crimes Against Humanity is a multidisciplinary, peer reviewed, open access journal dedicated to understanding the conceptualization, etiology, and prevention of violations of international criminal and humanitarian law. The journal is published in both online and print formats. The journal emphasizes socio-legal and criminological approaches, but solicits manuscripts from other disciplines that address causes, impacts, prevention, redress, and pedagogy related to its subject matter. The editors also welcome review essays which summarize recent scholarly literature. Our intended audience is the international community of scholars and practitioners devoted to understanding and preventing crimes against humanity. For more information and notes for contributors, see the journal's web site at <http://www.war-crimes.org>.

DIVISION OF CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY

CALL FOR EDITOR

CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY: AN INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL

The Division of Critical Criminology, American Society of Criminology is seeking applications for the position of Editor of Critical Criminology, the official journal of the Division. Critical Criminology is an international journal published four times a year by Springer, The Netherlands.

The journal deals with questions of social, political and economic justice. Critical Criminology is for academics and researchers with an interest in the anarchistic, feminist, integrative, Marxist, peace-making, postmodernist and realist criminology. The journal does not limit the scope of the inquiry to state definitions of crime and includes issues of social harm and social justice. Critical Criminology also deals with issues that include class, gender, race/ethnicity and heterosexism. The journal encourages works that focus on creative and cooperative solutions to justice problems, plus strategies for the construction of a more inclusive society.

The new Editor will serve a three year term beginning in the summer of 2006. Application for the position of Editor should include the following:

- * Letter of Application (because of the international nature of the journal, the Editor must include mention of how international submissions will be encouraged).
- * Vitae of Editor and any deputy editors
- * A statement of support from the Editor(s)' host institution
- * A statement of editorial philosophy and plan for the journal during the Editor's tenure.

Application review will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. For more information about the journal please visit: <http://www.springeronline.com/sgw/cda/frontpage/0,11855,4-40439-70-35674049-0,00.html>

DIVISION OF CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY

CALL FOR PAPERS – CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY: AN INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL

Critical Criminology is the official journal of the Division of Critical Criminology in the American Society of Criminology. The journal deals with questions of social, political and economic justice. Critical Criminology is for academics and researchers with an interest in anarchistic, cultural, feminist, integrative, Marxist, peace-making, postmodernist and realistic criminology. The journal does not limit the scope of the inquiry to state definitions of crime and includes issues of social harm and social justice. It also deals with issues that include class, gender, race/ethnicity and heterosexism. Conclusively we can say that the journal is of interest for all persons with an interest in alternative methodologies and theories in criminology, including chaos theory, non-linear analysis, and complex systems science as it pertains to the study of crime and criminal justice. The journal encourages works that focus on creative and cooperative solutions to justice problems, plus strategies for the construction of a more inclusive society.

Please send three hard copies of manuscripts to: Barbara Sims, Editor-in-Chief, Penn State Harrisburg, 777 West Harrisburg Pike, Middletown, PA 17057. Prior to submission, please access the following URL and follow the posted author's guidelines.

Call for Nominations for the 2005 Division on Women and Crime Awards

Nominations are requested for the following Division on Women and Crime awards:

Distinguished Scholar Award which recognizes outstanding contributions to the field of women and crime by an established scholar. The contributions may consist of a single outstanding book or work, a series of theoretical or research contributions, or the accumulated contributions of an established scholar. Eligibility includes scholars who have held a Ph.D. for eight or more years.

New Scholar Award which recognizes the achievements of scholars who show outstanding merit at the beginnings of their careers. Outstanding merit may be based on a single book or work, including dissertation or a series of theoretical or research contributions to the area of women and crime. Eligibility includes scholars who held a Ph.D. for less than eight years.

Lifetime Achievement Award which recognizes scholars upon retirement. We inaugurated this award on our 20th Anniversary, 2004. Scholars receiving this award should have an established career advancing the goals and work of the Division on Women and Crime.

"Inconvenient Woman of the Year" Award recognizes the scholar/activist who has participated in publicly promoting the ideals of gender equality and women's rights throughout society, particularly as it relates to gender and crime issues. This award will be granted on an ad hoc basis. Nominations should include specific documentation of public service (news articles, etc) and should describe in detail how this person's activism has raised awareness and interest in the issues that concern the Division on Women and Crime. This award was inaugurated in honor of our 20th Anniversary in 2004.

The nominees are evaluated by the awards committee based on their scholarly work, their commitment to women crime as a research discipline, and their commitment to women in crime as advocates, particularly in terms of dedication to the Division on Women and Crime. In submitting your nomination, please provide the following supporting materials: a letter evaluating a nominee's contribution and its relevance to the award and the nominee's c.v. (short version preferred). No nominee will be considered unless these materials are provided and arrive by the deadline. Send nominations and supporting materials by October 15, 2005:

Awards: Division Awards will be presented at the Division on Women and Crime meeting at the ASC conference in November. The committee reserves the right to give no award in a particular year if it deems this appropriate. Submissions: Please send a letter of nomination describing the nominees contributions, identify the award for which you are nominating the individual (distinguished scholar, new scholar), and make sure that a vita for this nominee reaches the committee in a timely fashion. Self nominations are welcome. Send to: Kimberly J. Cook, Chair, Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice, University of North Carolina at Wilmington, 601 South College Rd., Wilmington, NC 28403, or by e-mail: cookk@uncw.edu

CALL FOR PAPERS

Feminist Criminology

Editor: Susan F. Sharp, University of Oklahoma

Official Journal of the Division on Women and Crime of the American Society of Criminology

Feminist Criminology – an innovative new journal that is dedicated to research related to women, girls, and crime within the context of a feminist critique of criminology – will unveil its premier issue in January 2006. Published quarterly by Sage Publications as the official journal of the Division on Women and Crime of the American Society of Criminology, this international publication focuses on research and theory that highlights the gendered nature of crime. The feminist critique of criminology incorporates a perspective that the paths to crime differ for males and females. Therefore, research that uses sex as a control variable often fails to illuminate the factors that predict female criminality. Feminist Criminology provides a venue for articles that place women in the center of the research question, answering different questions than the mainstream approach of controlling for sex.

Feminist Criminology features research utilizing both quantitative and qualitative methodology and includes insightful topics such as

- Race, Ethnicity, and Gender Diversity in the Study of Women and Crime
- Cross-Cultural / International Perspectives on Women and Crime
- Women Working in the Criminal Justice Profession
- How Women Offenders Are Treated in the Criminal Justice System
- Women as Victims
- Feminist Theories of Crime

Feminist Criminology welcomes academics, practitioners, and researchers interested in studies that incorporate a feminist critique to the study of gender and crime to submit articles, reviews, or special issues proposals to the editor. Manuscripts involving empirical research, theoretical analysis, and practice-oriented papers will be considered as will essays on teaching, social action agencies, and book reviews on issues of gender and crime. Manuscripts will be peer-reviewed by the diverse and distinguished multi-disciplinary editorial board and should be submitted in electronic format, not exceeding 30 double-spaced typed pages, with a 100-word abstract and a brief autobiographical sketch. Figures, tables, and references must be on separate pages and should follow the format specified in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (5th Edition). Submissions to Feminist Criminology should be sent directly to the editor via email. A $10.00 submission fee, made payable to the American Society of Criminology, should be mailed to: Susan F. Sharp, Ph.D., University of Oklahoma, 780 Van Vleet Oval, KH 331, Norman, OK 73019 Email: ssharp@ou.edu

2005-2006 ASC ELECTION RESULTS

Vice President-Elect: Doris L. MacKenzie, University of Maryland at College Park

Executive Counselor: Robert Agnew, Emory University

Executive Counselor: Patricia Van Voorhis, University of Cincinnati

NEW EDITOR SOUGHT FOR CRIMINOLOGY & PUBLIC POLICY

The American Society of Criminology invites applications for the position of Editor of CRIMINOLOGY & PUBLIC POLICY, one of its official journals. The new Editor will be responsible for three volumes beginning with the February, 2008 issue. It is anticipated that manuscript submissions will transfer to the new Editor by December, 2006.

In addition to supervising the peer review process and selecting articles for publication, the Editor is responsible for the production of the journal. The American Society of Criminology now pays for copy editing, printing, and mailing of the journal and for a one-half time managing editor. The Editor's supporting institution normally provides office space, file storage, equipment, and funds to cover office expenses such as postage and phone for editorial correspondence, copying, graduate student assistance, and release time for the Editor. Supporting institutions may propose to assume some of the expenses now provided by the ASC. ASC will provide a $5,000 honorarium to the Editor each year.

Application materials should include (1) a statement of editorial philosophy, (2) resumes of all proposed personnel, including the Editor, Managing Editor, Copy Editor, and Associate Editors, and (3) assurances and details of institutional support.

Interested applicants may contact the current Editor, Todd R. Clear (212-237-8470) for additional information regarding the logistics or operational details of editing and producing the journal. Applicants are also encouraged to call Denise Gottfredson, Chair, ASC Publications Committee, to discuss their applications before submission.

Applications (ten copies) should be sent to:

Denise C. Gottfredson
Chair, Publications Committee
2220D LeFrak Hall
University of Maryland
College Park, Maryland 20742

They must be received by March 15, 2006.

CALL FOR PAPERS

AFRICAN JOURNAL OF CRIMINOLOGY AND JUSTICE STUDIES

The African Journal of Criminology and Justice Studies, a new interdisciplinary online journal, invites contributions on issues relevant to criminology and justice systems of interest to Africans at home and the African Diaspora globally. Comparative studies or research on related fields, and pedagogical papers on how to develop criminology and criminal justice education in Africa are particularly welcome. The journal accepts research articles, policy analyses, commentaries or brief research notes. Particularly, it encourages articles on innovative theoretical, methodological and policy interventions that deepen the understanding of how to prevent or repair the crimes against humanity that people of African descent have suffered and how to reverse the crisis of over-representation that people of African descent continue to suffer in correctional institutions around the world.

AJCJS is published by the University of Maryland Eastern Shore. The length of most articles is 5,000-6,000 words (in double-spaced pages). Commentaries and research notes should be approximately half this length. Limited number of reviews per issue will also be accommodated. Submission instructions to authors are posted at the journal's website: <http://www.umes.edu/ajcjs>.

Publishers and authors who may want to send copies of their books for review should send 4-6 copies directly to the managing editor: Emmanuel Onyeozili, Dept. of Criminal Justice, 3015 Hazel Hall, University of Maryland Eastern Shore, Princess Anne, MD. 21853.

For further information, please contact the editor, Biko Agozino at: bagozino@cheyney.edu or bagozino@yahoo.com

All contributions should be sent electronically to: ajcjs@umes.edu

Position Announcement
Sam Houston State University College of Criminal Justice

The College of Criminal Justice is seeking applicants for four full time tenure-track positions to be filled by the fall semester 2006. Applicants are sought with terminal degrees and expertise in criminology, criminal justice, forensic science, security studies, and law. The rank and salary for each position is open depending upon qualifications.

The College is particularly interested in applicants with active research agendas, potential for or record of funded research activity, commitment to quality teaching and mentoring of students, and teaching competencies at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Applicants for the forensic science position must be capable of developing and teaching courses in the College's master's degree program in forensic science and are expected to actively participate in the development of the anticipated PhD program in forensic science. Applicants must have a terminal degree in chemistry, biology, toxicology or a related field, a record of scholarship in their field, and relevant operational and academic experience.

Applicants for the legal position should have a demonstrable track record of legal scholarship and the capability of incorporating instruction in the law with the application of law to the administration of justice. Applicants with terminal degrees beyond the JD are preferred.

Letters of interest should specify the position being applied for, and include a current vita, examples of scholarship and publications, and a minimum of three references. Applications should be addressed to Dean Richard Ward; College of Criminal Justice; Sam Houston State University; Huntsville, Texas 77341-2296.

The College is one of the oldest and largest criminal justice programs in the nation and boasts an eclectic faculty of 31 professionals with specialties in psychology, law, criminal justice, sociology, criminology, history, social work, forensic science, and education. In addition to the Ph.D. in Criminal Justice, the College offers the MA, MS, BA, and BS degrees in criminal justice, victim studies and forensic science. Applicants are expected to be dedicated teachers, productive researchers, and professionals prepared to actively engage in the diverse programs administered by the College. Consult our web site for more information about the College and Sam Houston State University (www.shsu.edu).

PENNSSTATE

Altoona

Criminal Justice (Tenure-Track)

The Pennsylvania State University, the Altoona College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Criminal Justice. Candidates should have a doctorate in Criminal Justice or related field and be able to teach courses on courts, corrections, criminal justice ethics, and courses within the candidate's specialty. Research specialization is open.

Located in the beautiful Allegheny Mountains of central Pennsylvania, Penn State Altoona is a largely residential campus of 4,000 students offering sixteen baccalaureate degree programs and the first two years of 180 Penn State baccalaureate degrees. Degree offerings at Penn State Altoona will continue to expand. Only 40 miles from the University Park campus, Altoona College offers the advantages of small-college teaching with the readily available resources of a major research university.

The position requires a Ph.D. in Criminal Justice or related field, and is a tenure-track appointment at the level of assistant professor, or a rank commensurate with qualifications beginning in Fall 2006. Applicants should present a record of evidence and potential effectiveness in teaching, research, and service. Candidates should have a strong commitment to undergraduate education, research, student recruitment and retention, and curricular development and assessment. Penn State Altoona offers a competitive salary and an attractive benefits package.

Applicants should send a letter of application establishing their qualifications; a current vita; a description of teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness; a statement of research interests; transcripts (official transcripts required at the time of an interview); and a minimum of three letters of reference. Applicants are strongly encouraged to submit their applications and accompanying materials electronically to academicaffairs@psu.edu in Word or PDF formats. Review of applications will begin the week of November 1, 2005, and continue until the position is filled. Initial interviews will be conducted at the ASC meeting, November 15-19, 2005, but all applicants will be considered. Non-electronic inquiries, applications, and additional materials should be sent to:

SECOND INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON CULTURAL CRIMINOLOGY

May 12-13, 2006
 The Goodenough College
 Mecklenburgh Square, London

The aim of the conference is to encourage intense and focused discussion on key issues. Key papers will be presented in one room, with each paper being responded to by a number of discussants. A key theme of this conference will be cultural crimi-nology's impact on the dynamics of positive social change. Alongside the general call for papers in any area of cultural criminology, we particularly invite contributions addressed to the following themes:
 why cultural criminology now?; is the practice of cultural criminology a form of political praxis?; what can cultural criminology learn from the political failings of the past?; what is our critical methodology?; where can cultural criminology take us? Importantly, CC2 will also strive to look and feel different to more traditional conferences, comprising formal papers, open informal "themed" discussion sessions, visual and filmic presentations, and papers by some of cultural criminology's critics. Spaces for this event are limited due to the size of the room and the nature of the format. To reserve a place, those interested in attending should contact: k.j. hayward@kent.ac.uk (+44 127 827300).

CALL FOR PAPERS

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY ETHNOGRAPHY

Scott A. Hunt is the editor-elect for the Journal of Contemporary Ethnography. JCE publishes theoretically, methodologically, and substantively significant studies based upon participant-observation, unobtrusive observation, intensive interviewing, and contextualized analysis of discourse as well as examinations of ethnographic methods. Submissions from all substantive areas and theoretical perspectives are welcomed. Email manuscript submissions (in Word or WordPerfect format) may be sent to sahunt00@uky.edu. Hardcopy submissions and all other correspondence should be sent to Scott A. Hunt, Editor, Journal of Contemporary Ethnography, Department of Sociology, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky 40506-0027. A processing fee of US $10 must be submitted via a check or money order made payable to the Journal of Contemporary Ethnography.

THE SOUTHWEST JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE

The Southwest Journal of Criminal Justice (SWJCJ) is now accepting manuscripts for consideration. We are interested in receiving submissions of original work that have not been previously published. Diversity in theoretical and methodological approaches is encouraged as is the submission of policy-related research. The SWJCJ is the online, refereed journal of the Southwest Association of Criminal Justice, a regional affiliate of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences. Authors need not be members of the Southwest Association of Criminal Justice to submit a manuscript for consideration. Previous issues of the journal and submission information are located at <http://www.cj.txstate.edu/swacjindex.html>. Inquiries may be directed to the editor at jon_sorensen@pvamu.edu.

JUSTICE POLICY JOURNAL

The Justice Policy Journal is up and running again and better than ever. One of the few on-line journals, it is sponsored by the Center on Juvenile and Criminal Justice in San Francisco, with editorial support from the University of Nevada-Las Vegas. Papers should focus on public policy issues, although other scholarly articles will be considered. Among the topics we are especially interested in include the impact of incarceration policies, prisoner "re-entry," sentencing reform, drug policy, and juvenile justice policies. Review our submission guidelines at http://www.cjcj.org/jpj/submission_guidelines.php. Submissions to the JPJ (Justice Policy Journal) should have a title page, abstract, brief biographical sketch, a statement of research interest and an e-mail address. Send the document via e-mail as an attachment to [\[profgrgs@cox.net\]](mailto:profgrgs@cox.net) or postal service on a disk, preferably as a MS Word document, to: Justice Policy Journal, Professor Randall G. Shelden, Editor, Department of Criminal Justice at UNLV, 4505 Maryland Parkway, Box 455009, Las Vegas, NV 80154, tel: 702-895-0251. (Manuscripts that are not submitted electronically will not be accepted.) Manuscripts submitted via e-mail should be sent to JPJ in original word processing format, preferably Microsoft Word. JPJ articles submissions should be prepared in accordance with either the Modern Language Association or American Psychological Association documentation style for scholarly manuscripts and research papers. For information regarding the desired citation style, authors should consult the appropriate manual. Strict adherence to proper citation style is required. Papers that do not conform to one of the accepted styles will not be accepted.

THE JUVENILE AND FAMILY COURT JOURNAL

The Juvenile and Family Court Journal, published quarterly by the National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges, invites article submissions on the many issues facing our nation's juvenile and family courts. The Journal is a peer-reviewed, research-based publication; however, we also invite relevant essays and book reviews. Please contact the editor at (775) 784-6686 or by e-mail at jruffin@ncjfcj.org for writer's guidelines. Submissions should be sent to Editor, Juvenile and Family Court Journal, NCJFCJ, P.O. Box 8970, Reno, NV 89507.

CANADIAN JOURNAL OF CRIMINOLOGY AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE

The Canadian Journal of Criminology and Criminal Justice invites contributions on any aspect of crime or delinquency, or criminal or juvenile justice. CJCCJ has been publishing continuously for almost 50 years, making it one of the oldest scholarly journals in the field. Preference is given to articles with particular relevance to Canada, but the Journal also welcomes comparative studies and work which is of general interest. The Journal accepts research articles, research notes, commentaries, and book reviews. The length of most research articles is 20-30 double-spaced pages. Commentaries and research notes tend to be considerably shorter. An editorial decision is normally provided within three months of submission. Instructions to authors and book reviewers and the contents of recent issues are posted at the Journal's websites at: <http://www.ccja-acjp.ca/en/cjc.html> and <http://www.utpjournals.com/jour.ihml?lp=cjccj/cjccj.html>. For further information, please contact the editor, Peter Carrington, at: pjc@uwaterloo.ca

TRENDS IN ORGANIZED CRIME

Trends in Organized Crime offers a composite of analyses and syntheses from a variety of information sources to serve the interests of both practitioners and policy makers as well as the academic community. It is both a stimulus to and a forum for more rigorous empirical research on organized crime, both nationally and internationally. Published four times a year, Trends in Organized Crime is the official journal of the International Association for the Study of Organized Crime (IASOC). It has a distinguished international editorial board. Trends publishes peer-reviewed, academically rigorous research, excerpts significant governmental reports; offers reviews of major new books, and, presents analyses and commentary on current issues in organized crime. Manuscripts must be submitted in English, in electronic form to <finckena@aol.com> as either ASCII, RTF or Word files. For further information, contact the Editor at the above addresses, or at 973-353-3301.

CRITICAL PERSPECTIVES IN CRIMINOLOGY

Critical Perspectives in Criminology will publish scholarly books and edited volumes that are critically conceived, theoretically animated, integratively focused, and policy oriented. We hope to identify and secure commitments from established authors and emerging talent in the field of criminology, including individuals whose disciplinary base is sociology, psychology, law, philosophy, history, psychiatry, political science, gender studies, and any of the other related social and behavioral sciences. Books in the Series will be aimed at the scholarly community, including library acquisitions and single purchases by academic researchers, as well as classroom adoption in upper division undergraduate and lower division graduate courses. Volumes in the Series will NOT be intended for use as undergraduate textbooks. Questions about the Series or submissions should be sent to: Bruce A. Arrigo, Ph.D., Series Editor, Critical Perspectives in Criminology, Department of Criminal Justice, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, 9201 University City Blvd., Charlotte, NC 28223-0001; Barrigo@email.uncc.edu - or - Kerry P. Callahan, Acquisitions Editor, University of Illinois Press, 1325 South Oak Street, Champaign, IL 61820; Kerrypc@uillinois.edu

CRIMINAL LAW BULLETIN

The Criminal Law Bulletin is a journal addressing legal aspects of criminal justice, including policing, adjudication, corrections, and delinquency. The journal welcomes manuscripts by researchers, practitioners, and advanced graduate students. The 2003 volume included articles by James Jacobs, William Bowers, and Hans Toch. Manuscripts of varying lengths (3,000-10,000 words) are published in 6 issues per year. Submissions should be sent on an IBM-compatible disk in WordPerfect or Microsoft Word format, double spaced, with any tables or charts at the end of the copy, and accompanied by a hard copy to: James E. Robertson, Editor-in-Chief & Professor of Corrections, 113 Armstrong Hall, Minnesota State University, Mankato, MN 56001; or, preferably, e-mailed to: james.robertson@mnsu.edu (please remember to include your name, title, affiliation, address, daytime telephone number, fax number and e-mail address). References and citations should conform to either the Uniform System of Citation (The Bluebook) or the Chicago Manual on Style. The Criminal Law Bulletin is published by West Group and marks its 40th anniversary in 2004.

JOURNAL OF CRIME AND JUSTICE

The Journal of Crime and Justice, the official journal of the Midwestern Criminal Justice Association, is soliciting manuscripts with original scholarship in the area of crime and criminal justice. JC&J welcomes qualitative and quantitative empirical work, theoretical commentaries, and book reviews. The emphasis of the journal is on quality and interest to criminologists as well as practitioners. If you would like to have your work considered for publication in the JC&J, please submit a cover letter, four copies of your manuscript, and a $10 check made out to the Journal of Crime and Justice to: Christopher J. Schreck, Editor, Journal of Crime and Justice, Department of Criminal Justice, Rochester Institute of Technology, 1 Lomb Memorial Drive, Rochester, NY 14623. For more information about the Journal of Crime and Justice, please visit the Journal's Homepage at: <http://www.rit.edu/~cjsjgcj/JCJ.htm>.

JOURNAL OF POLICE CRISIS NEGOTIATIONS

The Journal of Police Crisis Negotiations is seeking manuscripts covering information and techniques about critical emergency situations, such as hostage-taking, crisis intervention, terrorism, attempted suicide, domestic disputes and barricaded subjects. For more information, contact: James L. Greenstone, 222 West Fourth Street, Suite 212, Fort Worth, TX 76102, 817/882-9415; drjlg@flash.net.

A CRITICAL JOURNAL OF CRIME, LAW AND SOCIETY

The Justice Professional has been replaced by A CRITICAL JOURNAL OF CRIME, LAW AND SOCIETY, a refereed journal published quarterly by Routledge, Francis and Taylor Group. It is housed at the C. W. Post Campus of Long Island University, Department of Criminal Justice. The journal publishes articles that deal with substantive criminal justice and criminological issues, inviting both qualitative and quantifiable papers. We welcome all articles relevant to areas of criminal justice as well as areas of public administration and public affairs. Literature review, summary report of innovative research projects, and research notes are all considered as well. MANUSCRIPT Typewritten, double spaced manuscripts must be submitted in quadruplicate (three blind copies) and sent to: Roslyn Muraskin, Ph.D., Editor, A Critical Journal of Crime, Law and Society, C.W.Post Campus – Post Hall 3C3, 720 Northern Blvd., Brookville NY 11548. An abstract of not more than 100 words, as well as a brief biographical statement describing the author's current affiliation and rank should accompany the manuscript along with the article on disk in Word. A CRITICAL JOURNAL regards submission to the journal as a commitment to publish herein. Permission for use of copyright material is the responsibility of the author. Manuscripts should not exceed 20 typewritten double spaced pages. All footnotes, references, tables, figures, illustrations must be camera ready on an eight and one half by eleven wide paper. Footnotes and bibliographic citations must follow the journal style based upon that followed the American Psychological Association (APA). Since manuscripts are sent out anonymously for editorial evaluation, the authors' name should appear on a separate cover sheet. Electronic copies are accepted and should be sent to Roslyn.Muraskin@liu.edu.

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY CRIMINAL JUSTICE

The Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice invites individuals to submit manuscripts for consideration for inclusion in a planned special issue on the topic, Prosecuting Change, Changing Prosecutors. The Guest Editor encourages submissions dealing with either the prosecution of emerging crime problems (e.g., terrorism) or changes in the role of the American prosecutor (e.g., from traditional to community prosecution). Inquiries about the appropriateness of topics should be directed to John L. Worrall, JCCJ Guest Editor, via email at jworrall@csusb.edu or telephone (909-880-7741). All manuscripts will be peer reviewed. Manuscripts should be no more than 25 typed, double-spaced pages including tables, figures and references. Manuscripts must be received no later than January 1, 2006. Please send four manuscript copies, along with the manuscript on disk, to John L. Worrall, Department of Criminal Justice, California State University San Bernardino, 5500 University Parkway, San Bernardino, CA 92407-2397.

JOURNAL OF CONTEMPORARY CRIMINAL JUSTICE

Special Issue: Criminal Justice in Latin America (August 2006 issue)

The Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice invites individuals to submit manuscripts for consideration for inclusion in a planned special issue on the topic, Criminal Justice in Latin America. The Guest Editor encourages submissions on all aspects of the subject, but is especially interested in manuscripts that consider Latin American criminal justice systems in comparative perspective. Inquiries about the appropriateness of topics should be directed to Christopher Birkbeck, JCCJ Guest Editor, via e-mail (birkbeck@ula.ve). All manuscripts will be peer reviewed. Manuscripts should be no more than 25 typed, double-spaced pages including tables, figures and references. Manuscripts must be received no later than January 15, 2006. Please send four manuscript copies, along with the manuscript on disk, to Christopher Birkbeck, School of Criminology, Universidad de Los Andes, Apartado 730, Mérida 5101, Venezuela.

INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF COMPARATIVE AND APPLIED CRIMINAL JUSTICE

Now in its 28th year, and newly adopted by the DIC, the International Journal of Comparative and Applied Criminal Justice has provided a forum for scholars, academics, and practitioners who are interested in comparative theory and empirical research in the field. The Journal focuses on two distinct but related concepts. First, papers should be comparative: i.e., comparative analysis of cross-cultural theories of crime, legal systems, policing, courts, juvenile justice, women offenders, and, minority offenders. Second, papers should include policy recommendations for applying research findings to the operations of criminal justice in a given country or region. We invite you to consider submitting your manuscript to this peer-reviewed journal for possible publication. Please send three copies of typewritten, double-spaced original manuscripts not published previously or currently under consideration to Mahesh Nalla, Editor IJCACJ, Michigan State University, School of Criminal Justice, 560 Baker Hall, East Lansing, MI 48824-1118. Guidelines for authors are available at www.cj.msu.edu/~international.

WOMEN & CRIMINAL JUSTICE

WOMEN & CRIMINAL JUSTICE is the only periodical devoted specifically to interdisciplinary and international scholarly research and criminal justice practice dealing with all areas of criminal justice in relation to women. It provides both scholars and practitioners with a single forum devoted to this critical specialty area in the fields of both criminal justice and women's studies. The journal is refereed and features original research articles from academicians and professionals in the field that reflect its interdisciplinary and international focus. The manuscript should be approximately 20-25 pages double-spaced with a one-inch margin on all four sides and should include an abstract of 200 words, a title page, and a brief biographical sketch of author(s). References, citations, and general style of manuscript should follow the APA style (as outlined in the latest edition of Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association). References should be double-spaced and placed in alphabetical order. Please send 4 copies to: Dr. Donna C. Hale, Editor, Department of Criminal Justice, Shippensburg University, 1871 Old Main Drive, 317 Shippen Hall, Shippensburg, PA 17257-2299.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW

The Criminal Justice Review is a biannual scholarly journal dedicated to presenting a broad perspective on criminal justice issues. It focuses on any aspect of crime and the justice system, and can feature local, state, or national concerns. Both qualitative and quantitative pieces are encouraged, providing that they adhere to standards of quality scholarship. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage the submission of articles, research notes, commentaries, and comprehensive essays that focus on crime and justice-related topics broadly defined. In addition to an electronic version of the manuscript submitted in either Microsoft Word or WordPerfect, five paper copies of manuscripts should be submitted in English, follow APA style, be double-spaced throughout, including references, tables and indented quotations, and cannot be under consideration by another publication. An abstract not to exceed 200 words must be included with submissions. Send to: Michael S. Vaughn, Editor, Criminal Justice Review, P.O. Box 4018, Georgia State University, Atlanta, GA 30302-4018; 404-651-3688; Email: mvaughn@gsu.edu; Web Site: www.gsu.edu/cjr.

INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW

The International Criminal Justice Review is an annual scholarly journal dedicated to presenting system wide trends and problems on crime and justice throughout the world. Articles may focus on a single country or compare issues affecting two or more countries. Both qualitative and quantitative pieces are encouraged, providing they adhere to standards of quality scholarship. Manuscripts may emphasize either contemporary or historical topics. As a peer-reviewed journal, we encourage the submission of articles, research notes, commentaries, and comprehensive essays that focus on crime and justice-related topics in an international and/or comparative context broadly defined. In addition to an electronic version of the manuscript submitted in either Microsoft Word or WordPerfect, five paper copies of manuscripts should be submitted in English, follow APA style, be double-spaced throughout, including references, tables and indented quotations, and cannot be under consideration by another publication. An abstract not to exceed 200 words must be included with submissions. Send to: Michael S. Vaughn, Editor, International Criminal Justice Review, P.O. JOURNAL OF SCHOOL VIOLENCE

From playground bullying to mass murder, the Journal of School Violence tracks the causes, consequences, and costs of aggressive or violent behavior in children from kindergarten through twelfth grade. It presents up-to-date research, practice, and theory with a focus on prevention and intervention. The Journal of School Violence offers tested information on such urgent matters as threat assessment, hostage situations, stalking behavior, and teacher safety, as well as articles on longer-range strategic planning. This peer-reviewed journal shows teachers and counselors how to deal with immediate problems and helps administrators and policy-makers plan effectively to ensure school security. Four copies of the manuscript should be submitted. The manuscript should be approximately 15-20 pages double-spaced with a one-inch margin on all four sides and should include an abstract of 100 words, a title page, and a brief biographical sketch of author(s). CALL FOR PAPERS

Special Issue: The Theory and Practice of Responding to Terrorism (February 2007 issue)

The Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice invites individuals to submit manuscripts for consideration for inclusion in a planned special issue on the topic, The Theory and Practice of Responding to Terrorism. Particular focus will be upon the effect of terrorism on our justice system -- from policy and legal issues relating to civil liberties during terrorism investigations to policing, prosecution, and punishment of terrorist offenders. Inquiries about the appropriateness of topics should be directed to Brent Smith, JCCJ Guest Editor, via email at (bls@uark.edu) or telephone (479-575-3401). All manuscripts will be peer reviewed. Manuscripts should be no more than 25 typed, double-spaced pages including tables, figures and references. Manuscripts must be received no later than July 1, 2006. Please send four manuscript copies, along with the manuscript on disk, to Brent Smith, Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice, University of Arkansas, Old Main, Room 228, Fayetteville, Arkansas, 72701.

ANNALS OF THE AMERICAN ACADEMY OF POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCE DEMOCRACY, CRIME AND JUSTICE

Special Issue Editors: Susanne Karstedt, Keele University, UK, and Gary LaFree, University of Maryland, USA

This volume seeks to consolidate and advance the study of democracy, crime and justice. We invite contributions from criminology, political science, sociology and related disciplines that explore the reciprocal connections between democratic institutions and processes and criminal behavior and criminal justice institutions. We seek broad coverage of these topics but with an emphasis on cross-national comparative approaches and democracies in transition. We plan to solicit both empirical and theoretical papers, and seek both cross-national comparative and case studies from both mature and newly emerging democracies and for a range of crime types and criminal justice institutions. The following questions suggest the breadth of topics to be addressed: Under what circumstances does the transition to democracy initiate a wave of crime and corruption? Is democracy, especially in the context of market economies, inherently criminogenic? How do responses to crime in both established and transitional democracies undermine civil liberties and affect public demands for restrictive changes in democratic institutions? How can transitional countries develop new democratic institutions and yet meet public demands for safety and security? How can criminal justice innovations (e.g., community crime prevention, restorative justice) be used to strengthen democracies? What new roles can communities develop for providing the moral order on which democracies rely and on which they thrive? How can principles of democratic governance be transferred to the supra- and international level in an increasingly globalized security environment? How do democratic states preserve and defend justice in the face of increasing threats from transnational crime and terrorism? The editors plan to use the 14th World Congress of Criminology [Philadelphia, USA, 7-12 August 2005 (www.worldcriminology2005.com)] as an opportunity to identify papers for the volume. Timetable and deadlines: We plan to have a final list of contributors by November 30, 2005 and final manuscripts by June 30, 2006. Final acceptance of all manuscripts will be made by the Editors of the Annals. For more information, contact the special issue editors: Susanne Karstedt: s.karstedt@keele.ac.uk or Gary LaFree: glafree@msn.com

AMERICAN JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE

The Journal of the Southern Criminal Justice Association

Editorial Policy: The American Journal of Criminal Justice, sponsored by the Southern Criminal Justice Association, is a refereed publication and manuscripts go through a blind review process. The focus of AJ CJ is on a wide array of criminal justice topics and issues. Some of these concerns include items pertaining to the criminal justice process, the formal and informal interplay between system components, problems and solutions experienced by various segments, innovative practices, policy development and implementation, evaluative research, the players engaged in these enterprises, and a wide assortment of other related interests. The AJ CJ publishes original articles that utilize a broad range of methodologies and perspectives when examining crime, law, and criminal justice processing. Submission Procedures: The strongly preferred way for authors to transmit manuscripts is via e-mail (WordPerfect or Word format). Submissions sent through the postal service should include one hard copy of the manuscript along with an IBM-compatible file on a 3 1/2 inch disk. Manuscripts should include a title page listing the author(s) and affiliation (s) along with postal and e-mail addresses, an abstract page that does not exceed 150 words, and a brief biographical sketch of the author(s). Papers are not to exceed 25 pages in total length (including tables, figures, and references) and style should conform to that outlined in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (2001). Submission of a manuscript to AJ CJ is regarded as a commitment to publish therein. Manuscripts submitted simultaneously to another journal will be rejected automatically. AJ CJ is abstracted or indexed in Criminal Justice Abstracts; Criminal Justice Periodical Index; Criminology, Penology, and Police Science Abstracts; International Political Science Abstracts; Psychological Abstracts; Public Affairs Information Service; and Sociological Abstracts. Address Manuscripts and Inquiries to: Brian K. Payne, PhD, Sociology and Criminal Justice, Old Dominion University, Norfolk, VA 23529, bpayne@odu.edu

SECURITY JOURNAL

The Security Journal provides a forum for the debate and analysis of key issues within the field of security. It brings together papers written by some of the world's leading practitioners and academics with the aim of generating new ideas and improving the management and practice of security. The papers will aim to facilitate the exchange of knowledge and good practice, and bridge the various disciplines, professions and countries. The ultimate criteria for a paper's acceptance are that the reader will learn something new from it and that it will advance learning in terms of generating ideas and/or improving practice. Contributors will include policy makers, professionals and academics. The journal will include research-based papers and case studies, as well as papers aimed at developing theory and good practice (3,000 - 5,000 words) and where appropriate, shorter pieces describing work under consideration or in progress (1,000 - 2,500 words). For more information about the journal, please visit the website: http://www.perpetuitypress.com/acatalog/Perpetuity_Press_Security_Journal_22.html. For inquires concerning submission guidelines and requirements, please contact co-editor Professor Bonnie Fisher at: Bonnie.Fisher@uc.edu

A CRITICAL JOURNAL OF CRIME, LAW AND SOCIETY

The Justice Professional has been replaced by A CRITICAL JOURNAL OF CRIME, LAW AND SOCIETY, a refereed journal published quarterly by Routledge, Francis and Taylor Group. It is housed at the C. W. Post Campus of Long Island University, Department of Criminal Justice. The journal publishes articles that deal with substantive criminal justice and criminological issues, inviting both qualitative and quantifiable papers. We welcome all articles relevant to areas of criminal justice as well as areas of public administration and public affairs. Literature review, summary report of innovative research projects, and research notes are all considered as well. MANUSCRIPT Typewritten, double spaced manuscripts must be submitted in quadruplicate (three blind copies) and sent to: Roslyn Muraskin, Ph.D., Editor, A Critical Journal of Crime, Law and Society, C.W.Post Campus – Post Hall 3C3, 720 Northern Blvd., Brookville NY 11548. An abstract of not more than 100 words, as well as a brief biographical statement describing the author's current affiliation and rank should accompany the manuscript along with the article on disk in Word. A CRITICAL JOURNAL regards submission to the journal as a commitment to publish herein. Permission for use of copyright material is the responsibility of the author. Manuscripts should not exceed 20 typewritten double spaced pages. All footnotes, references, tables, figures, illustrations must be camera ready on an eight and one half by eleven wide paper. Footnotes and bibliographic citations must follow the journal style based upon that followed the American Psychological Association (APA). Since manuscripts are sent out anonymously for editorial evaluation, the authors' name should appear on a separate cover sheet. Electronic copies are accepted and should be sent to Roslyn.Muraskin@liu.edu.

JOURNAL OF OFFENDER REHABILITATION

The Journal of Offender Rehabilitation has become a leading source for scientific and professional exchange on the treatment and rehabilitation of criminal offenders in custodial and community settings, about the dynamics of criminal behavior, and about the functioning of the criminal justice system. JOR is multidisciplinary in character, with its authors and the members of its Editorial Board representing the spectrum of mental health and social service professions. It welcomes submissions which report empirical or conceptual research or conceptual analysis of issues relevant to offender rehabilitation. Three hard copies along with a disc of the manuscript should be submitted. The manuscript should attempt to limit the page size to 25 pages double-spaced and should include an informative abstract of 100 words which conveys the purpose and goals of the study, the principal findings or conclusions, as well as sufficient information about methodology and statistical analyses (if pertinent) so that a prospective reader can make an informed judgment about delving into the article. The abstract should be followed by, at most 5, keywords used to search for similar articles. A detachable title page, and a brief biographical sketch of author(s) limited to 50 words per author should also be included. References, citations, and general style of manuscripts should follow the APA style (as outlined in the latest edition of Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association.) References should be double-spaced and placed in alphabetical order. Send all requests and manuscripts to: Journal of Offender Rehabilitation, Editor: Dr. Nancy Wolff, Professor, Public Policy Program, Edward J. Bloustein School of Planning and Public Policy, Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, 33 Livingston Avenue, Suite 282, New Brunswick, NJ 08901. Send email to jorh@rci.rutgers.edu. Further manuscript submission information is located at <http://haworthpress.com/web/JOR/> ; follow the .pdf version of manuscript submission instructions for authors.
