DEAR COLLEAGUES,

I would like to extend a warm welcome to you. We have organized what we hope will be a successful meeting, and trust that you will find the 29th Annual Meeting of the Society rewarding in many ways.

The program is structured as follows:

—Plenary sessions on Thursday at 4:00 PM, Friday and Saturday at 9:00 AM —Panel sessions are scheduled on Thursday from 9:00 AM-10:45 AM, 11:00 AM-12:45 PM, and 2:00 PM-3:45 PM. On Friday and Saturday Panel sessions are from 10:45 AM-12:30 PM, 1:30 PM-3:15 PM, and 3:30 PM-5:15 PM.

Our annual business meeting is scheduled for Thursday at 5:30 PM in the South Ballroom, and all standing committees are scheduled to meet in the South Ballroom, Sunday from 10:00 AM-12:00 AM.

The awards banquet will be held Saturday evening at 7:00 PM in the South Ballroom. The cost of the banquet is included in all full registrations. In addition, receptions are scheduled for Thursday evening (7:00 PM-8:00 PM) and Saturday evening (6:00 PM-7:00 PM).

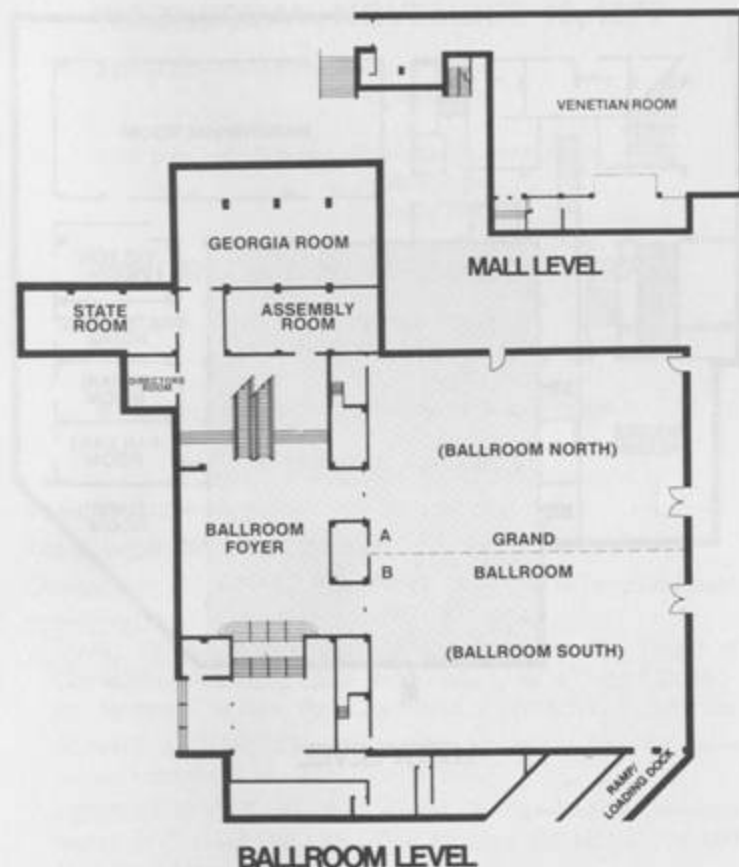

During the meetings the Directors Room will be used as a headquarters and press office. If you have any problems please contact someone at this office.

EMPLOYMENT EXCHANGE

The employment exchange has been organized by William Parsonnage. It will operate Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 9:00 AM-5:00 PM.

MAP

The following floor plan should facilitate the locating of meeting rooms. Meetings listed for the Georgia Institute of Real Estate are in the 100 Building of the Colony Square complex.

MANAGING THE POLICE ORGANIZATION: SELECTED READINGS

by Larry Gaines and Truett Flicks, 1978, $9.95, SC, 500 pages(t)

READINGS ON POLICE-COMMUNITY RELATIONS (2nd EDITION)

by Paul Cromwell and George Keeler, 1978, $8.95, SC, 500 pages(t)

Police in a Time of Change by John J. Broderick (Stonehill College), 256 pages, paper, $5.95, 1977.

Avoiding the use of sociological jargon and making copious use of field notes throughout, this high-interest text describes various police personalities and their sociological styles and explores relationships both within police departments and between department members and the public. The emphasis on daily police problems and the need to professionalize law enforcement makes for lively classes. A bibliography and questions for discussion are included.

OF CRIME Deviants: Voluntary Actors in a Hostile World edited by Edward

Sagarin (City College of New York) and Fred Montanino (Yale University), 600 pages, paper, $9.95, 1977.

AND After exploring current theories in the field of deviance, this text provides chapter coverage on selected topics

— crime and delinquency, criminal violence, organized crime, white collar crime, drug abuse, alcoholism, prostitution, sexual deviance, pornography, and suicide. Each chapter was written by an authority in the field.

from Criminal Justice in Middle America by David W. Neubauer (University of New Orleans), 304 pages paper, $6.95. Using the case method, the author examines practices in a single midwest community and compares them in detail and with those in other communities.

The Heritage of Modern Criminology edited by Sawyer F. Sylvester, Jr. (Bates College), A Schenkman Book, 196 pages, paper, $5.50. Each article reflects an important aspect of the discipline's heritage and each exemplifies the movement away from a one-dimensional study of punitive measures and criminology to a broader understanding of the biological, sociological, psychological, and historical factors involved.

Streetwise Criminology by Duane Denfeld (University of Connecticut), A Schenkman Book, 390 pages, paper, $5.95. Integrated by the author's chapter introductions, these engrossing accounts — from convicted offenders to members of a metropolitan police force — question old myths and illusions about crime and open up new avenues for investigation.

New Criminology Texts From Saunders

CRIMINAL JUSTICE IN AMERICA: THE SYSTEM, THE PROCESS, THE PEOPLE

by Harold J. Vetter, Univ. of South Florida, Tampa and Clifford E. Simonsen, Dept. of Social and Health Services, State of Washington. Written expressly with the student in mind, this text assumes no prior knowledge of the subject, and offers a step-by-step analysis of law enforcement. Your students will be able to trace the processing of a hypothetical offender all the way from arrest to correctional or rehabilitative intervention. What's more they'll benefit from the combined insights of authors with backgrounds in the psychology and public administration of criminal justice. 484 pp. Illustd. $11.75. Feb. 1976.

THE NATURE OF CRIME by Harold J. Vetter, and Ira J. Silverman, both of the University of South Florida, Tampa. This excellent text acquaints the student with the major types of personal and property crimes and their perpetrators. Included are statistics showing the frequency and distribution of crimes excerpted from official sources like the Uniform Crime Reports published by the FBI. The text primarily focuses on crimes committed against the person (murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault) and property crimes (larceny, burglary, motor vehicle theft). However, the authors also discuss organized crime, white collar crime and "special category offenders" (juveniles, women, narcotics and alcohol addicts, the mentally disturbed and retarded, etc.) About 405 pp. Illustd. About $10.50. Just Ready.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES by Burton Wright, of Florida Technological University, Orlando, Florida and Vernon Fox, of Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida. This unique introductory text integrates various social science fields with the criminal justice curriculum concerns. Intended for majors and non-majors desiring an overview of the various theoretical and practical contributions the psychology, sociology, political science, anthropology and economics fields have made to criminal justice. A complete (over 200 page) instructor's manual facilitates the structuring of a course for this text. About 400 pp. About $12.95. Ready March 1978.

THE SUPREME COURT AND THE CRIMINAL PROCESS: CASES AND COMMENTS

by Peter W. Lewis of the University of South Florida and Kenneth D. Peoples, of the Dept. of Education, State of Missouri and the University of Missouri, Kansas City. Ideal for a student's first course in criminal justice, this text contains all the important, up-to-date supreme court decisions concerning the criminal process. The authors first focus on the 4th, 5th and 6th amendments. Most of the remainder of the text includes cases evolving around these amendments. Each case begins with the "facts of the case" spelled out for the student's reference; they conclude with detailed comments (including lower federal and state court implications). Highlights are the discussions of federal jurisdiction, judicial review, limitations on Supreme Court Review, nationalization of the Bill of Rights, the juvenile justice process, the legal rights on the convicted and much more. About 895 pp. Illustd. About $18.50. Ready Jan. 1978.

1978 SUPPLEMENT TO THE SUPREME COURT AND THE CRIMINAL PROCESS: CASES AND COMMENTS

by Peter W. Lewis and Kenneth D. Peoples. This paperback supplement contains the most recent Supreme Court decisions. About 180 pp. Ready 1978.

Philadelphia, PA 19105

COMING IN 1978

New (10th) Edition . . . CRIMINOLOGY

Edwin H. Sutherland; and Donald R. Cressey, University of California, Santa Barbara

The most extensive revision in nearly twenty years of this classic study of crime, delinquency, and penology, the 10th edition updates or revises statistics, research data, bibliographies, and references. New coverage deals with all phases of criminal behavior including narcotics and crime, poverty and crime, social institutions, organized crime, and television and crime. Unique is the inclusion of research data on crime and corrections from different nations.

about 600 pages/February 1978/clothbound

New (2nd) Edition . . .

INTRODUCTION TO CRIMINAL JUSTICE

Donald J. Newman, School of Criminal Justice, State University of New York, Albany

Updated and revised, this important book offers a comprehensive overview of the criminal justice system. It incorporates legal and sociological considerations and emphasizes formal law and how the system operates. All phases of the system are viewed as interrelated components, with emphasis on how the criminal justice system runs rather than on who runs it. A new chapter analyzes operational procedures, and today's "get tough" approach to crime control receives special attention. Instructor's Manual.

about 512 pages/February 1978/clothbound

New . . . THE PUNISHMENT RESPONSE

Graeme Newman, School of Criminal Justice, State University of New York, Albany

Sanctioning an orthodox model of punishment, this study shows that retribution has strong moral and social roots throughout Western history, and that history supports a moral argument against deterrence. The conventional view that retribution is vindictive, while deterrence is "right" is shown to be flawed.

about 336 pages/January 1978/paperbound

New . . . CRIME AT THE TOP: DEVIANCE IN BUSINESS AND THE PROFESSIONS

Edited by John M. Johnson, Arizona State University; and Jack D. Douglas, University of California, San Diego

The product of several years' research through the literature, this collection focuses on the varieties of white-collar crime. In addition to business-related crime, the editors have included material on crime in the professions of medicine, law and teaching.

THE JUVENILE OFFENDER: CONTROL, CORRECTION, & TREATMENT

Clemens Bartollas, Sangamon State University and Stuart J. Miller, Washington and Jefferson College

This readable text for courses in juvenile corrections, juvenile delinquency, or juvenile justice explores and defines the nature of youthful offenders and the corrections processes designed for them. A history of juvenile corrections, philosophies of juvenile justice, and current practices are examined. The book details options available and the effectiveness of various methods of dealing with youthful offenders. The text also covers the jobs and problems of practitioners in the field. 1978, est. 500 pp.
