Georgia Legislature Voted to Discontinue a Tax Break for Delta Airlines

In March 2018, the Georgia legislature voted to discontinue a tax break for Delta Airlines, which has a hub in Atlanta, GA, in response to Delta's decision to stop offering discounts for members of the National Rifle Association. This is an issue that resonates with the American Society of Criminology and its members; the fact that our 2018 annual conference is located in Atlanta makes this issue even more salient to discussion today.

As the ASC Executive Council, we wish to express our concern about this action by the Georgia legislature. Efforts to prevent federal funding for gun research, to discredit evidence-based policy proposals for reducing gun violence, or to punish companies that wish to distance themselves from the NRA, inhibit the advancement of knowledge and compromise public safety. We recognize the need to base decisions on crime and justice policy on evidence, data, and rigorous analysis, and we oppose any efforts to silence those who wish to study or freely discuss gun violence.

Consistent with these principles, we have made a conscious decision to highlight the issue of gun violence in the U.S. in the November 2018 ASC conference schedule. We encourage all members to participate in these panels and in the broader discussion about guns in the U.S.

American Society of Criminology embodies the following objectives:

1. To bring together, in one multidisciplinary society, persons actively engaged in research teaching, and/or practice in the field of criminology.
2. To foster criminological scholarship, research, education, and training within academic institutions and within the divisions of the criminal justice system, including public and private agencies concerned with crime, justice, and corrections.
3. To encourage scholarly, scientific, and practical exchange and cooperation among those engaged in criminology.
4. To serve as a forum for the dissemination of criminological knowledge.

WELCOME TO ATLANTA!

LISA BROIDY, PROGRAM CO-CHAIR, UNIVERSITY OF NEW MEXICO

STACY DE COSTER, PROGRAM CO-CHAIR, NORTH CAROLINA
STATE UNIVERSITY

KAREN HEIMER, ASC PRESIDENT, UNIVERSITY OF IOWA

It is with great pleasure that we welcome you to Atlanta, Georgia for this year's ASC conference. The theme of the 2018 annual conference, Institutions, Cultures and Crime, is an invitation to reflect upon the important ways in which formal institutions, informal institutions, and cultures shape crime, social control, and inequality. The work of scholars and practitioners in criminology and criminal justice reminds us that socio-cultural influences are shaped by and vary across time and space. We are hopeful that the meetings will underscore the role of our discipline in examining, challenging, and informing contemporary trends in institutions and cultures relevant to pressing issues associated with crime, social control, justice, and equality. We are very excited about the program for the conference and wanted to share with you some of the events that we hope will stand out as meeting highlights.

The meeting's theme is evident throughout the various sessions in the 2018 program, including regular panels, special and thematic sessions, author-meets-critic sessions, roundtables, and poster sessions. We would like to draw your attention to the Presidential Plenary, Thematic, and Policy Sessions, all designed to highlight the program theme. These can be viewed online in the preliminary program by selecting "Presidential Sessions" under the "browse by category" and "browse by session type" tabs at:

<https://convention2.allacademic.com/one/asc/asc18/>. All of these sessions center on the complex interplay between institutions, cultures, and crime and feature new and exciting research presentations. We also are fortunate to be able to host a screening of the new film, The Pushouts, on Thursday evening at 8:00 p.m., followed by a Q&A with the filmmaker and scholars who worked on the project. The film focuses on the interplay between race, class and power in schools, and features the work of sociologist Victor Rios with a group of youths in Watts who have been "pushed out" of school.

Of course, we hope you will join us for Karen's Presidential Address on Friday, 5:00-6:00 p.m. She also will present the ASC President's Justice Award at this session, and hand off the gavel to next year's president, Meda Chesney-Lind. And, do not miss the ASC Awards Plenary on Wednesday, November 14th, 6:30-

WELCOME TO ATLANTA!

8:00 p.m., followed immediately by the Opening Social at 8:00 p.m. with Ron Akers and His Bluegrass Band or Ruth Peterson Fellowship for Racial and Ethnic Diversity Dance and Social on Friday, November 16 at 9:00 pm.

Clearly, we have an engaging mix of plenaries, panels, and other sessions. Yet, we encourage you to take some time to explore Atlanta, as well. The rich Civil Rights legacy of Atlanta aligns with our theme by reminding us that institutions and cultures influence crime, justice, and inequality in powerful and enduring ways. We also hope you will join us in contributing to local organizations addressing crime and justice issues in Atlanta. The Southern Poverty Law Center's Georgia Innocence Project (<https://www.splcenter.org/>) and the Southern Center for Human Rights (<https://www.schr.org/about/history>) embody the theme of our meetings by addressing continuing challenges in the criminal justice system – inequality in the sentencing of death, mass incarceration, human rights abuses in prisons, inhumane criminal justice practices, and unequal access to counsel – that are both rooted in and contribute to institutional and cultural practices that perpetuate inequality and injustice. The Atlanta Volunteer Lawyers Foundation (<https://avlf.org/our-purpose/>) focuses on providing institutional access to resources among underprivileged groups by working with individuals and families in their pursuit for safe and stable housing and providing social and legal services for women and families working to break free from domestic violence. Finally, the work of local organizations, such as World Relief Atlanta (<https://worldreliefatlanta.org/refugee-resettlement>) and New American Pathways (<http://newamericanpathways.org/who-we-are/history/>), is particularly important, given the cultural misinformation and institutional strategies directed toward immigration and immigrants in our contemporary political environment.

We heartily thank everyone on the program committee, the local arrangements committee, the ASC staff, and various ASC members who helped organize plenaries and policy sessions for their wonderful contributions. Many thanks! The 2018 annual meeting is going to be an intellectually stimulating and exciting conference. We also extend our gratitude to all who will attend the meetings and hope you will find the sessions and activities fulfilling and invigorating. We are particularly hopeful that the meetings will serve as a reminder of the role we share in examining and informing contemporary trends in institutions and cultures relevant to issues associated with crime, social control, justice, and equality. We look forward to seeing everyone in Atlanta!

INTRODUCING THE ANNUAL REVIEW OF CRIMINOLOGY

The Annual Review of Criminology provides comprehensive reviews of significant developments in the multidisciplinary field of criminology, defined as the study of both the nature of criminal behavior and societal reactions to crime. International in scope, the journal examines variation in crime and punishment across time (e.g., why crime increases or decreases) and among individuals, communities, and societies (e.g., why certain individuals, groups, or nations are more likely than others to have high crime or victimization rates). The societal effects of crime and crime control, and why certain individuals or groups are more likely to be arrested, convicted, and sentenced to prison, will also be covered via topics relating to criminal justice agencies (e.g., police, courts, and corrections) and criminal law.

Master of Arts – Criminal Justice

The master's degree in Criminal Justice is designed to provide a foundation in research and theory in substantive areas of criminal justice activity and focused scholarship on issues of importance to the field.

Our faculty is very productive in terms of teaching, publishing, and service to the community. This translates into graduate courses that are cutting-edge and relevant, as well as opportunities for both faculty-student research collaborations and student engagement in community discipline-related service. A recent internal review determined that our program has a 100% placement rate for students applying to Ph.D. programs.

The Department of Criminal Justice at Boise State University was named one of the top 10 M.A.-granting universities in terms of total grant dollars obtained by our faculty (Mustaine & Tewksbury, 2009).

Application deadlines:

INSPIRE CHANGE TOGETHER

WITH THE UNITED NATIONS

EDUCATION FOR JUSTICE

Through the Education for Justice initiative, the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime has developed a series of university modules looking to assist academics teaching on some of today's most crucial threats. With inputs from hundreds of academics from universities across the globe, the modules range from cybercrime to human trafficking, terrorism to firearms, and much more. Open source and free to use, we invite academics to find out how we can work together on these critical teaching areas.
