American Society of Criminology embodies the following objectives:

1. To bring together, in one multidisciplinary society, persons actively engaged in research teaching, and/or practice in the field of criminology.
2. To foster criminological scholarship, research, education, and training within academic institutions and within the divisions of the criminal justice system, including public and private agencies concerned with crime, justice, and corrections.
3. To encourage scholarly, scientific, and practical exchange and cooperation among those engaged in criminology.
4. To serve as a forum for the dissemination of criminological knowledge.

WELCOME TO SAN FRANCISCO!

MEDA CHESNEY-LIND, ASC PRESIDENT,
UNIVERSITY OF HAWAII AT MANOA
LISA PASKO, PROGRAM CO-CHAIR, UNIVERSITY OF DENVER
VERA LOPEZ, PROGRAM CO-CHAIR, ARIZONA STATE UNIVERSITY

It is with great pleasure that we welcome you to San Francisco, California for this year's ASC conference from Nov. 13-16. The theme of the 2019 annual conference, Criminology in a New Era, Confronting Injustice and Inequalities, is our effort to think through the research agenda for progressive criminology in a repressive era—one characterized by the global emergence of right wing politics, particularly racism, sexism, and nativism. How should the field of criminology navigate this fraught and contentious intellectual, political and policy terrain particularly as politicians seek to involve the criminal justice system in their repressive initiatives, notably immigration and reproductive rights? These questions have been at the heart of the meeting we are organizing.

Also important to acknowledge in the current era and in our upcoming conference are global and transnational perspectives of crime, victimization, justice, and inequalities. Throughout most of history, the field of criminology has been preoccupied with crime as a local phenomenon, requiring local responses. Global and transnational criminology remedy such parochialism, offer diverse attitudes and explanations, and expand the boundaries of traditional criminological thinking. A related concern and one that also will be highlighted in our 2019 conference is the criminalization of immigrants based on a political, non-research based agenda that blames undocumented immigrants for violence, crime, and poverty in the U.S. Hate-filled propaganda fueled by for-profit prison interests work hand-in-hand to manufacture the current "crisis" on the U.S.-Mexico border. The criminal justice system is also complicit in the criminalization of immigrants. Certain actions are illegal for undocumented immigrants that are not illegal for citizens; local law enforcement agencies enforce federal immigration laws; and immigrants (particularly brown immigrants) are increasingly under surveillance. Finally, key themes for this meeting include a focus on injustice and inequalities, exploring the way that various social divides differentially impact women, people of color, and undocumented immigrants in an era marked by "fake news" and "alternative facts."

While the meeting's theme is evident throughout the various sessions in the 2019 program, including regular panels, special and thematic sessions, author-meets-critic sessions, roundtables, and poster sessions, we would like to draw your attention to the Presidential Sessions, all designed to highlight issues of injustice and inequality. Marc Mauer's session on Wednesday, looks at the role of life imprisonment as a driver of mass incarceration. After nearly four decades of historic rise in rates of incarceration, prison populations have been declining since 2009. That said, the overall pace of decarceration is still quite modest, in part because reducing admissions to prison or time served for persons convicted of lower-level drug and property offenses is such a limited challenge to the problem. Half of those in state prisons are serving time for a violent offense, and of these, one of every seven--206,000 in total—is serving a life sentence. We clearly need to begin rethinking the use of life sentences if we ever wish to properly address and correct the problem of mass incarceration. Mauer's panel will explore the meaning of these patterns and suggest policy changes needed. Later on Wednesday, a panel moderated by Charis Kubrin will critically consider the concept of "cimmigration" is scheduled. Cimmigration refers to the merging of civil and criminal laws targeting immigrants. Numerous scholars have addressed the harmful effects of "cimmigration" on immigrants both in the U.S. and abroad. Yet, few scholars have considered how the study of cimmigration may have inadvertently naturalized the link between crime and immigration in the public mind by neglecting to specify how social, legal, and historical contexts contribute to the criminalization of immigrants. This panel takes up this important issue.

Thursday morning showcases a session on "the new detective" and focuses on criminal investigations. Organized by D. Kim Rossmo, the session notes that criminal investigations are an important policing responsibility and the gateway to the rest of the criminal justice system. Despite this central role, criminologists have largely ignored detective work, and the few recent studies have primarily focused on technical issues such as cybercrime or DNA. Later that morning, Hank Fradella's moderated discussion on the future of "queer criminology" is scheduled. The panel will consider what is queer criminology ("QC")? Who are queer criminologists? Why have criminology and criminal justice lagged so far behind other disciplines in engaging lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer (LGBTQ) populations? Later Thursday, a presidential panel showcasing Reproductive Justice in the Trump Era. This session will survey the current challenges for those working toward reproductive justice and challenging reproductive inequalities. Since the 1990s, the criminalization of women's reproductive choices and the assault against women's reproductive liberty have grown dramatically, especially with the emergence of TRAP (Targeted Regulation of Abortion Providers) laws as well as laws restricting access to late-term termination. Additionally, within the last year alone, several states have moved to remove access to abortion completely. This has created a special burden for as well as regulation of poor women and women of color. Indeed, reproductive justice shows how people who experience multiple marginalization and are oppressed by intersectional identities also undergo higher levels of reproductive oppression. In this session, scholars as well as several representatives from nonprofits who work in the field will discuss the reproductive inequalities and injustice, current politics, policies, and laws, and initiatives for change in the future.

The next presidential panel, organized by Walter DeKeseredy, focuses on sexual harassment within criminology and criminal justice departments, graduate programs, and organizations such as ASC. Twenty-eight years ago, Betsy Stanko conducted a sexual harassment and sexual discrimination survey sponsored by the ASC's Division on Women and Crime of its members. An alarming number of respondents reported receiving some unwanted comments about their sexuality during their professional and graduate training. As well, some of the comments included racist and homophobic statements. Disturbing data, too, were gleaned about members' research and employment experiences. What has happened since Dr. Stanko's path-breaking survey? Are things getting better or worse? What do we need to do now? The main objective of this presidential panel is to answer these three questions and work to building a #MeToo Movement in Criminology and Criminal Justice Studies.

We hope that you consider attending the Presidential Address, "Doing Feminist Criminology in an Era of Misogyny" (working title) on Friday, November 15 at 5pm. This session is also when Meda will present the ASC President's Award for Distinguished Contributions to Justice. This year's recipient is Marc Mauer, Executive Director of the Sentencing Project. Marc's work with the project, and his own publications have established him as a leader in criminal justice policy research and advocacy. Specifically, it was Marc's publication in 1990, "Young Black Men and the Criminal Justice System," which documented that nearly one in four Black males 20-29 were under some form of criminal justice supervision on any given day. That report, and a 1995 follow-up, led to Congressional hearings, renewed scholarship on racial justice, and state-based examinations of race and incarceration.

He has followed that up with a long series of important policy oriented reports and briefs, including his recent work on the role that life sentences plays in our country's problems with mass incarceration. Please join Meda in recognizing Marc Mauer and celebrating his achievements in the cause of justice.

We also hope you will join us in contributing to local organizations addressing crime and justice issues in San Francisco (and California) since so much good work is occurring in this city and state. The Center on Juvenile and Criminal Justice, <http://www.cjcj.org/index.html>, has done vital work in dramatically reducing California's youth incarceration rate. Young Women's Freedom Center,

WELCOME TO SAN FRANCISCO!

(<https://www.youngwomenfree.org/>), is doing important work to de-criminalizing young women of color and focusing on transforming the systems that keep people of color stuck in cycles of poverty, violence, and incarceration. The Youth Law Center, <https://ylc.org/>, provides vital legal services to system involved youth. The Youth Law Center is currently suing the city of San Francisco, over its detention practices. Legal Services for Prisoners with Children (<https://www.prisonerswithchildren.org/>) organizes communities impacted by the criminal justice system and advocates to release incarcerated people, to restore human and civil rights and to reunify families and communities. A New Way of Life Foundation (LA) (<http://anewwayoflife.org/>) is a reentry project that provides housing, case management, pro bono legal services, advocacy and leadership development for women rebuilding their lives after prison. Finally, Time for Change Foundation (<https://www.timeforchangefoundation.org/>) has helped over 1,200 women and children achieve self-sufficiency, recovering from homelessness, substance abuse, and incarceration

We heartily thank everyone on the program committee, the local arrangements committee, the ASC staff, and various ASC members who helped organize plenaries and policy sessions for their important contributions. Many thanks! The 2019 annual meeting is going to be an intellectually stimulating and exciting conference, and hopefully it will also allow us to refocus on the work ahead, guaranteeing a criminal justice system that actually provides justice to those whose lives it touches. We also extend our appreciation to all who will attend the meetings and hope you will find the sessions and activities will provide you with a renewed intellectual agenda. We are particularly hopeful that the meetings will serve as a reminder of the role our research can play in creating a criminology that is focused on reducing inequalities and injustice. We look forward to seeing everyone in San Francisco!

All meeting areas are non-smoking areas. Individuals attending the Annual Meeting should keep in mind the need to be attentive to their personal security and the protection of their property. As a reminder, do not leave money or valuables in rooms. If a safe is needed and there's not one in your room, please ask your hotel front desk for information.

GENERAL MEETING INFORMATION

CODE OF CONDUCT

Introduction

As an organization, we uphold our Code of Ethics (approved March 2016). Section II #5 of the Code states, “In their professional activities, ASC members are committed to enhancing the general well-being of societies and of the individuals and groups within them. Thus, ASC members have an obligation to avoid forms of social injustice such as discrimination, oppression, or harassment.” Section II #10 of the Code states, “ASC members do not force, coerce, or obtain through manipulation personal favors, sexual activity or economic or professional advantages from any person including faculty, students, research respondents, clients, patients, research assistants, clerical staff or colleagues. ASC members will not engage in workplace harassment, aggression, or bullying of any kind.”

We remind all participants in ASC activities during the annual meeting that the Code of Ethics will be upheld so that all its members enjoy a welcoming environment free from unlawful discrimination, harassment and retaliation. We refer to this as the Code of Conduct.

Application

This policy applies to all participants in ASC activities, including but not limited to event attendees, professionals, students, guests, staff, contractors, exhibitors, and participants in scientific sessions, on tours, and other social events of any ASC meeting or other activity.

Expected Conduct

All participants at ASC meetings are expected to abide by the Code of Conduct in all meeting venues including ancillary events as well as official and unofficial social gatherings. This Code of Conduct is designed to reinforce the norms of professional respect that are necessary to promote the conditions for free academic interchange. If you witness potential harm to a conference participant, please be proactive, to the extent that you are comfortable, in helping to prevent or mitigate that harm.

Unacceptable conduct

Threatening physical or verbal actions and disorderly or disruptive conduct will not be tolerated. Harassment, including verbal comments relating to gender, sexual orientation, disability, race, ethnicity, religion, age, national origin, gender identity or expression, veteran status or other protected statuses, or sexual images in public spaces, deliberate intimidation, stalking, unauthorized or inappropriate photography or recording, inappropriate physical contact, and unwelcome sexual attention, will not be tolerated.

A SPECIAL THANK YOU

The American Society of Criminology wishes to extend a special thanks to the many publishers and government agencies that have once again chosen to exhibit their materials and sponsor numerous food events.

We greatly value your participation and note that your presence has become an integral aspect of our annual meeting experience. We thank you again, not just for your business, but your support of the field of criminology.

Celebrating 85 Years of Excellence

For 85 years, American University's School of Public Affairs has been committed to training, educating, informing, and elevating public affairs scholars and experts.

PROUD OF OUR CRIMINOLOGY AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE FACULTY

SPA's faculty include top scholars who are experts in criminology and criminal justice. They work with policymakers and practitioners in the U.S. and abroad to address current social issues with evidence-based solutions.

TALISA CARTER
Assistant Professor

She is focused on interactions of deviance, social organizations, race, and the U.S. prison system.

JANICE IWAMA
Assistant Professor

She is focused on the impact of crime on communities, hate crimes, racial and ethnic issues, and the victimization of immigrants.

LALLEN JOHNSON
Assistant Professor

He examines urban crime, particularly illicit drug markets and the violence that occurs around them.

DAVID MALET
Assistant Professor

He is a counterterrorism expert with a research focus on foreign fighters and radicalization around the world.

SASHA COHEN O'CONNELL
Executive-in-Residence

A former FBI executive, she focuses on cybersecurity policy and related impacts on security, privacy, and technology.

New Forthcoming Book
Tortured Logic: Why Americans Support Torture in Counterterrorism

A new book written by SPA Associate Professor Joseph Young and University of Alabama Assistant Professor Erin Kearns, AU SPA/PhD '16 (Columbia University Press), will examine factors that push and pull public support for torture in counterterrorism.

ANNUAL REVIEWS
CONNECT WITH OUR EXPERTS

ANNUAL REVIEW OF CRIMINOLOGY

The Annual Review of Criminology, in publication since 2018, provides comprehensive reviews of significant developments in the multidisciplinary field of criminology, defined as the study of both the nature of criminal behavior and societal reactions to crime. International in scope, the journal examines variations in crime and punishment across time (e.g., why crime increases or decreases) and among individuals, communities, and societies (e.g., why certain individuals, groups, or nations are more likely than others to have high crime or victimization rates). The societal effects of crime and crime control, and why certain individuals or groups are more likely to be arrested, convicted, and sentenced to prison, are also covered via topics relating to criminal justice agencies (e.g., police, courts, and corrections) and criminal law.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE

MASTER OF ARTS - CRIMINAL JUSTICE

The master's degree in Criminal Justice is designed to provide a foundation in research and theory in substantive areas of criminal justice activity and focused scholarship on issues of importance to the field.

Our faculty is very productive in terms of teaching, publishing, and service to the community. This translates into graduate courses that are cutting-edge and relevant, as well as opportunities for both faculty-student research collaborations and student engagement in community discipline-related service. A recent internal review determined that our program has a 100% placement rate for students applying to Ph.D. programs.

The Criminal Justice program at Boise State University was named one of the top 10 M.A.-granting universities in terms of total grant dollars obtained by our faculty (Mustaine & Tewksbury, 2009).

STATISTICS IN CRIMINOLOGY AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE

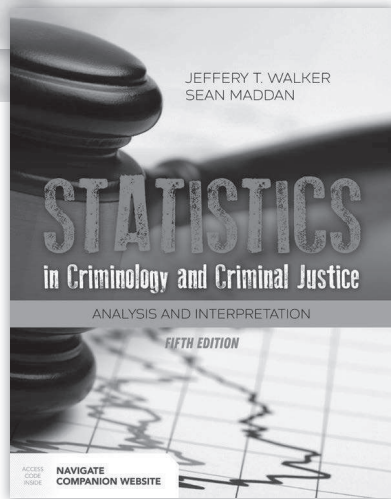

ANALYSIS AND INTERPRETATION

FIFTH EDITION

Statistics in Criminology and Criminal Justice, Fifth Edition focuses on both theory and application of statistical analysis geared towards criminology and criminal justice students. The Fifth Edition addresses data collection, knowing which statistics to use with what data, and how to interpret output of SPSS.

With nearly 40 years of combined teaching experience and 15 years of revising editions, Drs. Walker and Maddan have crafted an engaging and understandable resource for students to effectively apply statistical information.

Every new print copy includes access to the Navigate Companion Website with a NEW Student Practice Workbook in fillable PDF format containing practice exercises, sample data sets an interactive glossary, and practice quizzes.

NEW LEARNING FEATURES

- NEW Secrets for Success. A chapter opening feature to make the math more approachable, guidance for how to read through the text, and suggestions for further practice on difficult concepts
- NEW Stop! Do This! A box feature that gives students immediate practice with formulas and concepts as they work through the material
- NEW Student Practice Workbook. An online resource with practice exercises and Sample Data Sets to build on activities presented in the book.
