RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

- 2025-2026 Research Assistant, Arizona State University; Dr. Stacia Stolzenberg
Assisted in an ongoing qualitative analysis of miscommunication and attorney adaptation strategies in child sex abuse trial testimonies. Facilitated IRB approval process for a research project investigating college women’s online dating behaviors and beliefs.
- 2024-2025 Research Assistant, Arizona State University; Dr. Beth Huebner; Dr. Joe Schafer
Safety & Justice Challenge - Public Safety Communications Personnel Project
This project uses data from multiple public safety communication centers collected via systematic social observations of public safety communication personnel from three sites, as they perform job duties in order to better understand the types of interactions PSCP have with individuals calling public safety services. Duties included creating literature summaries, interviews with public safety personnel and patrol, transcriptions, codebook creations, and in-person SSOs.
- 2023-2024 Research Assistant, Arizona State University; Dr. Beth Huebner
Criminal Justice Design Project
This project worked with the University Design Institute to use a Design + Build process - a 4-step method that moves initiatives from conception to execution. Using discovery, this project aimed to build relationships and gather information from stakeholders that affect, and are affected by, the criminal justice system. Our team hosted three Discovery Convenings held in three ASU different locations: Phoenix, AZ, Washington D.C., and Los Angeles, CA. Duties included facilitating discussions on criminal justice reform amongst criminal justice faculty, criminal justice professionals, and system-involved individuals, taking notes, observing, and contributing to writing report findings from each convening.

- 2023 Research Assistant, Arizona State University; Dr. Beth Huebner
Recruitment and Retention for Arizona Public Safety and Fire Professions
This project aimed to identify the main challenges to retention and recruitment of police and fire in metro and rural areas of Arizona. It also aimed to provide concrete recommendations on diversifying and expanding recruitment efforts and boosting retention in these agencies. Duties included conducting interviews with police and fire to understand recruitment and retention for a report for the Arizona Board of Regents, transcribing interviews, developing a codebook and coding interviews for themes, and providing assistance in writing qualitative memos.
- 2022-2023 Research Assistant, Arizona State University; Dr. Abigail Henson
Transcribed interviews with Tucson police officers, contributing to research aimed at analyzing and understanding the dynamics between law enforcement personnel and the communities they serve.
- 2022-2023 Research Assistant, Arizona State University; Dr. Marva Goodson
Transcribed interviews with justice-involved women, focusing on their perceptions of egocentric social networks. Utilized NVivo to code and analyze qualitative data, identified common themes, constructed narratives that contributed to the project's research objectives, and compiled literature for publications.
- 2022 Volunteer Research Assistant; Arizona State University; Dr. Kathleen Fox
Research on Violent Victimization Lab
Transcribed interviews with ASU staff and students as part of a research project examining the experiences of Indigenous peoples in higher education.
- 2021-2022 Research Assistant, Arizona State University; Dr. Andrea Montes and Dr. Abigail Henson
Hispanic Criminology State of the Evidence in the 21st Century
Organized and managed scholarly articles from the top eleven Criminal Justice journals using Mendeley to manage systematic literature, helped develop a refined search strategy to systematically identify articles in the field of Hispanic Criminology, and assisted in coding Hispanic criminology articles post-search.

- 2021 Research Assistant, Arizona State University; Dr. Danielle Wallace
Contributed to scholarly publication efforts by creating detailed tables for various research articles and assisted in systematically searching for articles that analyze police interactions as represented in the media.
- 2019-2021 Senior Undergraduate Research Assistant; Dr. Danielle Wallace and Dr. Alyssa Chamberlain
The Neighborhood Observation, Disorder, and Drone Lab (NODD)
Conducted research analyzing drone imagery data and comparing it to findings gathered through in-person methods through ArcGIS supervised undergraduate students, provided guidance on research tasks, and managed multiple project components.
- 2017-2020 Student Success Assistant; Arizona State University; Dr. Pauline Komnenich
Organized and managed research articles using Mendeley Reference Manager and created and structured multiple Canvas courses, providing administrative and technical support.
