

STONEHILL COLLEGE

TENURE TRACK ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF CRIMINOLOGY

THE DEPARTMENT OF CRIMINOLOGY AT STONEHILL COLLEGE invites applicants for an assistant professor, tenure-track appointment in Criminology to begin in July 2027. Our new colleague would join a department of five full-time faculty with a wide range of disciplinary expertise and a commitment to fostering diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging in their classrooms. The department is nestled in the Martin Institute for Law & Society that provides our students with interdisciplinary learning opportunities for accomplishing Stonehill's mission of educating the whole person so that each Stonehill graduate thinks, acts, and leads with courage toward the creation of a more just and compassionate world.

We seek applicants who are committed to excellence in teaching, advising, and mentoring undergraduates and who exemplify the teacher-scholar model with a clear understanding of how to integrate vibrant teaching, research, and student engagement. The teaching load for tenure track faculty is three courses per semester. Successful candidates will be ready and able to teach key departmental classes such as, Critical Introduction to Criminal Justice, Criminological Theories, Research Methods, and Statistics for the Criminology Department. We are particularly interested in candidates with areas of research expertise that complement existing department strengths.

Applicants should have a completed Ph.D. in criminology or criminal justice. ABD candidates will be considered based on experience and a firm schedule to finish the degree by August 2027. Qualifications must include a demonstrated excellence in undergraduate teaching. Candidates who broaden the perspectives and experiences represented within the department are particularly encouraged to apply.

Founded by the Congregation of Holy Cross in 1948, Stonehill is a private Catholic Liberal Arts college located on a beautiful 384-acre campus in Easton, Massachusetts. With a student to faculty ratio of 13:1, the College engages its 2,400+ students in rigorous academic programs in the liberal arts, sciences, and pre-professional fields in service of an education that fosters a commitment to the common good, prepares students for responsible citizenship in their local and global communities, and inspires students to pursue rewarding professional lives. Stonehill College's mission includes a commitment to fostering social justice, enhancing diversity, and pursuing intellectual inquiry.

Interested applicants should submit online a letter of application, curriculum vitae, one example of your scholarly work, three letters of recommendation, and a teaching portfolio. The teaching portfolio should include evidence of teaching excellence and course syllabi, and a statement of teaching philosophy. In your teaching philosophy and/or cover letter, please explain how diversity is incorporated into your teaching materials and methods. Submit required documentation via the URL link:
